

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNIVERSITY.

THE earliest forms of the constitution of the University of Oxford appear to have been based on those of Paris, though no historical details as to its origin exist. The teachers and scholars of whose presence there is evidence in the accounts of the teaching of Theobald of Étampes (1116-1120), Robert Pullein (1133), and Vacarius (about 1149) had arrived at some degree of academic organization before the end of the twelfth century, the existence of Doctors of various faculties as well as of Masters and Scholars being recorded about 1187 in connexion with the celebrated visit of Giraldus Cambrensis. In 1214 the Bishop of Lincoln, the ecclesiastical superior of the clerks thus gathered within his diocese, appointed a Chancellor for their government, and the constitution which arose out of such elements has been moulded into its present form, in part by the authority of the Crown and of Parliament, in part by the inherent self-governing power of the University itself.

It is now a corporate body, known for centuries by the style or title of The Chancellor Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford; a title confirmed by Parliament in the reign of Queen Elizabeth<sup>1</sup>. It is invested with all the usual powers of corporations, and also with various peculiar privileges, such as the right of exercising jurisdiction, civil and criminal, over its members, a distinct representation in the municipal government of the City of Oxford, and the right of returning two Burgesses to the House of Commons.

Its principal purpose is, and has always been, that of conferring

<sup>1</sup> "Be it therefore enacted by the authority of this present Parliament, that the Right Honourable Robert Earl of Leicester now Chancellor of the said University of Oxford and his successors for ever, and the Masters and Scholars of the same University of Oxford for the time being, shall be incorporated and have a perpetual succession in fact deed and name, by the name of The Chancellor Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford, and that the same Chancellor Masters and Scholars of the same University for the time being, from henceforth by the name of Chancellor Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford, and by none other name or names, shall be called and named for evermore." Stat. 13 Eliz. c. 29. s. 1.

Degrees as a token of proficiency in certain studies, and to that end of prescribing the studies and other conditions requisite to the attainment of each Degree, of examining candidates, and in certain cases of classifying them according to their merits. Further, out of its own endowments, from the dues levied from its members, from trusts devoted to the encouragement and reward of various branches of learning, and from contributions proceeding from the revenues of colleges, the University provides for the appointment of professors and readers in different departments of knowledge, and awards scholarships and prizes to its members as marks of academic distinction.

Its ancient privileges have been recognized and augmented by a long succession of Royal Charters from the earliest period; and these Charters themselves have been sanctioned by Parliament; for in an Act, intituled "An Act for the Incorporation of the two Universities," it is expressly declared, that all Letters Patent of preceding Sovereigns granted to the University of Oxford "shall be good, effectual, and available in law, according to the form, words, sentences, and true meaning of every of the same Letters Patent, as amply, fully, and largely, as if the same Letters Patent were recited verbatim"<sup>1</sup> in the Act itself.

It was a consequence of the ecclesiastical character belonging to the University from its earliest origin that conformity to the tenets of the national Church long continued to be required as a condition of membership; but since the abolition of religious tests in 1871, the University has been open, without respect of birth, age, or creed, to all men who satisfy certain constituted authorities such as a College, Hall, or other recognized body within its bounds, of their good character and educational fitness, and who are prepared to conform to University discipline and to pay the requisite dues. Every person who has been admitted a member is, whilst he remains such, amenable to the regulations of the University, and has access to its privileges according to his academic rank, and can compete for all its degrees, prizes, and distinctions, with the exception that degrees in Divinity are confined to members of the Church of England in Priest's orders. The Members of the University at present number close upon thirteen thousand. Of these more than three thousand are undergraduates, and more than nine thousand are graduates who, having completed their educational course and proceeded to their degrees, keep their names upon the books of the University by payment of the customary dues.

The government of the University is in the hands of those of its members who have taken the degree of Master of Arts or of Doctor.

of Civil Law, Medicine, or Divinity. These constitute the House of Convocation, but much of the business of the University is conducted by more limited bodies—the Ancient House of Congregation, the Congregation of the University of Oxford, the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors, the Hebdomadal Council, and other boards and officers appointed to supervise special departments.

With the exception of rare interventions on the part of the Crown, the University had, until about the middle of the nineteenth century, been governed by statutes of its own making. In the course of centuries such statutes, made from time to time, as occasion seemed to call for them, and frequently with insufficient reference to previous enactments, grew into a confused mass without order or arrangement, and in many cases at variance with the usages of the University. Many attempts were made to remedy this evil, and at length in the Chanceryship of Archbishop Laud a digested code of laws, compiled by special delegates, was ratified by Convocation in 1636 under the title of Corpus Statutorum Universitatis Oxoniensis, which is the basis of the present Statute-book<sup>1</sup>.

According to its ancient constitution, established long before the Laudian Code, and continuing without alteration down to the passing of the Oxford University Act, 1854, (17 and 18 Vict., c. 81), the University effected its legislation and transacted the whole of its business as a corporation, in two distinct assemblies, the HOUSE OF CONGREGATION and the HOUSE OF CONVOCATION.

THE HOUSE OF CONGREGATION (now commonly called the ANCIENT HOUSE OF CONGREGATION) consisted then, as now, exclusively of Regents, whether "necessario regentes" or "regentes ad placitum." All Doctors of Law, Medicine, and Divinity, and all Masters of Arts, are necessary regents for the space of two years after their admission to regency, that is, for two years from the end of the term in which they were admitted to their respective degrees, Easter and Act terms being counted as one. Persons of the following descriptions, being members of Convocation, are regentes ad placitum: all Professors and Public Readers; all Doctors in the three superior faculties resident in the University; all Heads of Colleges and Halls, or, in their absence, their deputies; the Public Examiners, Moderators, and Masters of the Schools; the Deans or Censors of Colleges; and the Censor of Students not belonging to any College or Hall, or his deputy. The term "regent" imported government or superintendence in the Public Schools of the University over the disputations and other academical exercises which in ancient times were performed there. Necessary regents were bound in rotation, regentes ad placitum were at liberty when they pleased, to superintend those exercises, and to examine candidates for degrees. The House of Congregation therefore comprised all those persons who were specially charged with the education and discipline of the University, whether in public or within the several Colleges and Halls.

The HOUSE OF CONVOCATION consists both of regents and non-regents, that is, of all persons who have been admitted to regency, provided that, from the time of their admission to the degree which made them regents, their names have been constantly kept on the books of the Society to which they belong, and that they have discharged all dues and paid all fees required of them by the Statutes. The same position is held by those who have been admitted to the degree of Master of Arts or Doctor in any of the three faculties by Diploma or by Decree of Convocation; but a degree conferred merely honoris causa conveys no right of voting. Masters of Arts and Doctors who have ceased to be members of the University, and who desire to replace their names, or who, having obtained similar degrees at Cambridge or Dublin, have been incorporated at Oxford, may, after the performance of certain conditions, supplicate for admission to the House; but no such person is entitled to vote in Convocation until after the expiration of one hundred and eighty days from the time of his admission.

The Chancellor, or the Vice-Chancellor, or one of his four deputies, and the two Proctors, or their respective deputies, preside in both Houses; and their presence in them on all occasions is indispensably requisite. The number of regents required to make a Congregation is nine at the least, besides the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors: for a Convocation no quorum is required. In both Houses the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor singly, and the two Proctors jointly, have the right to stop all matters, except elections, by an absolute negative: otherwise every question is decided by the majority of votes.

For the better government of the University, a sort of council, devised probably by Archbishop Laud, was instituted in 1631 by King Charles I. It consisted of the Heads of Houses and the Proctors, and, from being appointed to hold a weekly meeting, became known by the name of the HEBDOMADAL BOARD. Its business was to deliberate on all matters relating to the maintenance of the privileges and liberties of the University, or to the due observance of its statutes and customs, and generally to consider and discuss every measure tending to the improvement or benefit of the University before such measure should be submitted for the approval of the whole academical body in Convocation assembled. It thus had the initiative in all the legislation of the University, and in fact no question of any sort could be submitted to the vote of Convocation without its sanction.

In this constitution of the University the Act of 1854 above referred to made a considerable change. It left indeed the two ancient assemblies of Congregation and Convocation; but to these it added a third, now called, in the terms of the Act, the CONGREGATION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD. It also transferred all the powers, privileges, and functions of the Hebdomadal Board to another body, called the HEBDOMADAL COUNCIL.

The HEBDOMADAL COUNCIL consists partly of official and partly of elected members. The official members are the Chancellor, the Vice-Chancellor, the late Vice-Chancellor (for one year at least from the expiration of his term of office), and the two Proctors. The elected members are six Heads of Colleges or Halls, six Professors, and six other members of Convocation of not less than five years' standing. They are elected by the Congregation of the University of Oxford for six years, but so that one-half of each of the three classes shall vacate their seats every three years, being, however, capable of re-election. To this Council, as has been stated above, all the powers, privileges, and functions possessed or exercised by the Hebdomadal Board have been transferred, and therefore it has the initiative in all the legislation of the University.

The ANCIENT HOUSE OF CONGREGATION remains unchanged in its constitution, but it has nothing to do with legislation, and its business is now almost restricted to the granting of degrees, a matter upon which in ancient times the persons of whom the House was composed were necessarily the fittest judges.

The new CONGREGATION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD comprises, besides certain officials, all those members of Convocation who have resided within one mile and a half of Carfax for twenty weeks during the year which ended on the first day of September last preceding. The Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor, with the Proctors, preside at its meetings, as in the two older Houses, but no right of negative is allowed to them, every question being decided by a majority of votes. No particular number of members is requisite to make a meeting.

The principal business of this house is concerned with matters of legislation. Thus, when a new statute has been framed by the Hebdomadal Council, it is then promulgated, after due notice, in Congregation, and the question that the principle of the statute as stated in the preamble be approved is submitted to it and accepted or rejected. Any member of Congregation may then or within two days, propose amendments; and such amendments, if, in the judgement of the Vice-Chancellor, not inconsistent with or irrelevant to the principle of the statute as stated in the preamble, will be printed, and taken into consideration at a subsequent meeting. The Council also may propose amendments. If any such amendments are adopted by Congregation, it is then in the power either of the Council or of any twelve members of Congregation to propose further amendments. If no amendment be proposed, or when all the proposed amendments and further amendments, if any, have been considered in Congregation, the question that the statute do pass is submitted to Congregation on a subsequent day, of which not less than three clear days' notice must be given. Whenever it may seem expedient to the Council, resolutions containing the chief points of a proposed statute may be submitted to Congregation before the statute itself is framed: and in the event of such resolutions being approved, Congregation may refer them to a select committee for the purpose of drawing up a statute. A statute approved by Congregation has to be submitted to Convocation, after an interval of at least seven entire days, for final adoption or rejection. Congregation has also a limited power of amending money-decrees.

In addition to its principal function of legislation Congregation is now entrusted with a large share in the election of members of the various boards of Curators, Delegates, and the like, through whom the administration of the University is conducted.

In the HOUSE OF CONVOCATION, consisting of all Masters of Arts and all Doctors of the three superior faculties who have their names upon the books, every formal act of the University, and all its business as a corporate body, except only what relates to the granting of ordinary degrees, is done and concluded. Matters of special or individual concern, and such as require immediate provision, are dealt with by decree. It is in Convocation that honorary degrees are conferred, as well as degrees bestowed out of the ordinary course either by decree or by diploma. It is in this House also that elections to offices in the gift of the University take place. Leases, conveyances, petitions to Parliament, and other documents which require the common seal of the University for their validity, here receive the sanction of the academical body. No proposition, however, whether general or special, can originate in Convocation itself, either as a substantive measure, or as an amendment to such a measure. A statute necessarily comes before Convocation in the shape in which it has passed the Congregation of the University, and must be accepted in that shape or rejected without amendment. A decree drawn up by the Hebdomadal Council must also be accepted or rejected in the terms in which it is proposed, or, in the case of expenditure exceeding £100, in the terms in which it has passed Congregation. Thus it will be seen that in the last resort Convocation has supreme control over the action of the University.

For the better management of certain matters, chiefly of administration or detail, the University often delegates its authority, or some limited portion thereof, to committees chosen from itself. Examples of such committees are the Curators of the Bodleian Library, of the Sheldonian Theatre, and of the University Park; the Delegates of the Press, of Local Examinations, and of Non-Collegiate Students.

OFFICERS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

THE CHANCELLOR.

The CHANCELLOR of the University of Oxford is elected by the Members of Convocation, and holds the office for life. Anciently this office was held for very short periods, seldom for more than four years, and for the most part by some resident member of the University, until the Chancellorship of John Russell, Bishop of Lincoln, elected in 1483, who retained it till his death in 1494. No stipend is assigned to it: on the contrary, the custom of many years has entailed expenses on its holder.

THE HIGH STEWARD.

The Seneschallus, or HIGH STEWARD, is appointed by the Chancellor, and approved by Convocation. His special duty is to hear and determine criminal causes of the gravest kind, such as treason and felony, at the mandate of the Chancellor, and according to the laws of the land and the privileges of the University, whenever the accused is a scholar or privileged person resident within the precinct of the University. The office is held for life. There is also a Deputy Steward, appointed in like manner. The ancient stipend of the High Steward is £5 a year; of the Deputy Steward £2.

The privilege of having such criminal causes tried by an Officer of the University was first granted by Henry IV in 1406; and, although the language of his charter is quite consistent with the supposition that the office of High Steward was then in existence, there is no record to show that it really did exist before that time. Indeed the Registers of the University supply no name of any High Steward for nearly fifty years afterwards.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR.

The Chancellors from the earliest times, even when they were still resident in the University, were assisted in the administration of justice and in the discharge of other business by Deputies, whose number varied, and who perhaps were often appointed for special purposes rather than for definite periods of time. These officers were for the most part called Commissaries; till in the middle of the sixteenth century the title Pro-Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor began to be employed, the latter of which, from the year 1574, has quite superseded the ancient name. The Commissaries appear to have been always nominated by the Chancellors, except for the few years during which the Edwardian Statutes, given by the King's Visitors in 1549, were in full force. In 1568 the Earl of Leicester, Chancellor, set aside the right of free election, which those statutes had vested in the House of Congregation, and resumed the ancient practice. The office seems to have become annual in the earlier part of the sixteenth century.

Under the Laudian Statutes the VICE-CHANCELLOR is annually nominated by the Chancellor from among the Heads of Colleges. The letters of nomination are read in Convocation, shortly before the beginning of Michaelmas Term, by the Senior Proctor, and the new Vice-Chancellor then immediately makes the requisite declarations, and enters upon his office. He appoints four deputies, or Pro-Vice-Chancellors, from among the Heads of Colleges, who are to exercise his powers in case of his illness or necessary absence from the University. The office of late has been generally held for four years.

A small portion of the annual benefaction of £200, bequeathed to the University by Nathaniel, Lord Crewe, Bishop of Durham, who died in 1721, and also a small benefaction from Sir Henry Savile, are assigned to the Vice-Chancellor; and a bequest of John Wills, D.D., Warden of Wadham College, who died in 1806, produces about £200 a year for the endowment of the office. Under a Statute passed in 1855, the annual income is made up to £600 from the University Chest.

 1899 THOMAS FOWLER, D.D., President of Corpus.

PROCTORS.

The two PROCTORS of the University were anciently elected in Convocation; but, the elections having become very tumultuous, the method was changed by an ordinance of King Charles I, and from the year 1629 the choice was made within the several Colleges according to a cycle of twenty-three years, which lasted through ten revolutions. In 1859 a new cycle of thirty years was instituted, adapted to the then existing condition of the Colleges, and comprising with them the Halls jointly. In and since 1889 the Proctors have been elected by the Colleges and the new foundation of Keble College singly, and the Non-Collegiate Students and Private Halls jointly, in a cycle of simple rotation by which an election falls to each of the electing bodies once in eleven years.

The cycle is as follows :—

Merton	Balliol	Wadham
Lincoln	Christ Church	Non-Collegiate Students and Private Halls
Corpus	All Souls	Queen's
Keble	Magdalen	Pembroke
University	New College	Trinity
St. John's	Worcester	Jesus
Brasenose	Exeter
Hertford	Oriel

Under the existing statutes the electors are the members of the governing bodies of the several Societies, being members of Convocation, together with all such other members of the same Societies as are members of the Congregation of the University. Any such elector may be elected to the office, provided he has completed four and has not completed fifteen years from his admission to Regency in Arts. The election is made on the Wednesday after the first Sunday in Lent; and on the Wednesday in the ninth week of full Hilary Term the new Proctors are admitted to their offices in Convocation, and take their seats. They nominate each two Masters of Arts, of three years' standing at the least, to be their respective deputies or Pro-Proctors. Each Proctor receives an annual stipend of £350, each Pro-Proctor of £80.

THE CHANCELLOR'S COURT.

Of the extensive jurisdiction in cases in which one of the parties is a resident member of the University, entrusted to the Chancellor or his deputies by a long series of charters confirmed by the Act of 13 Elizabeth, some branches have become obsolete.

The civil jurisdiction of the Chancellor in such cases is, however, still in active exercise. It is exclusive, unlimited in amount, and extends to all causes of action, not relating to freehold, which arise in any part of England. In the absence of the Vice-Chancellor, his legally qualified "Assessor," or "Deputy," whose office was placed upon a permanent footing by the Laudian Statutes, acts as Judge of the Courts. The Court is held every Friday during term, and on days out of term specially fixed by the Judge.

Down to the year 1864, the Court administered a modernized form of the civil law, but since 17 and 18 Vict. c. 81 it has administered the common law, and its procedure is governed by Rules made, under several Acts of Parliament, by the Vice-Chancellor, with the sanction of the Rule Committee of the Judges.

The Assessor is appointed by the Vice-Chancellor. Under the old system he was naturally a civilian, and usually a member of Doctors' Commons, but he must now be a barrister of at least five years' standing and a member of Convocation. He receives an annual stipend of £40. The Registrar of the Court, who is appointed by the Chancellor, must be a solicitor and a member of Convocation, or a Bachelor of Civil Law. The Proctors ad lites, appointed by the Vice-Chancellor, must also be solicitors. The appeal is now to a divisional Court of the High Court.

The criminal jurisdiction of the Vice-Chancellor is now limited to that which he exercises as being, under the charters, ex officio a Justice of the Peace for the City and for the Counties of Oxford and Berks. The exercise of this exclusive jurisdiction in Petty Sessions, from which an appeal of course lies to the Quarter Sessions of the County, has recently been facilitated by 49 and 50 Vict. c. 31.

THE PUBLIC ORATOR.

The office of Public Orator was first permanently established in 1564, the previous custom being that the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor selected some fit person on each occasion to perform the duties attached to it. It is his business to write letters and addresses and to make orations in the name of the University upon public occasions, to present those on whom the honorary degree of Master of Arts is to be conferred, and to deliver the annual Creweian Oration alternately with the Professor of Poetry. He is one of those appointed to adjudge several of the University Prizes. He must be a Member of Convocation, and is elected by that body. The stipend originally assigned to the office was a yearly pension of twenty nobles (£6 13s. 4d.) from the University Chest, which has been subsequently raised to £130. He also receives £20 from Lord Crewe's benefaction.

In 1635 King Charles I annexed a Canonry of Christ Church to this office: but the grant, never having been confirmed by Act of Parliament, was disregarded in 1660, when Robert South was elected Orator; and, although he was made a Canon ten years afterwards, that dignity has not been conferred on any of his successors.

A statute made by the University Commissioners in 1881 renders the Public Orator subject to the jurisdiction of the Visitation Board created by the same statute.

CLERKS OF THE MARKET.

Control of the Market, in order to secure fair dealing in provisions of all kinds, was granted to the Chancellor by King Edward III in 1355. In the days when prices were fixed by authority it was the Chancellor who fixed them in Oxford; and whatever jurisdiction in such matters can now be exercised by magistrates anywhere is exercised by the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor here. Two Clerks of the Market are annually appointed, one by the Chancellor, the other by the Vice-Chancellor. They must be either Principals of Halls, Masters of Arts, or Bachelors of Divinity, Medicine, or Law. The stipend of each Clerk is fixed by statute at £26 a year.

THE KEEPER OF THE ARCHIVES.

This office was instituted in 1634. It is the Keeper's duty to take charge of and to arrange all the muniments and papers concerning either the estates, possessions, rights, and privileges of the University, or the endowments of Professorships, and all the registers and records of the University. He is ex officio a Delegate of Privileges. He is elected by Convocation. The yearly stipend of the office, originally £40, was raised in 1828 to £100, but was reduced to £40 in 1884, in which year a further endowment calculated to produce about £63 annually was secured to the office by the liberality of the then Keeper, Dr. Griffiths, sometime Warden of Wadham College.

A statute made by the University Commissioners in 1881 renders the Keeper of the Archives subject to the jurisdiction of the Visitatorial Board created by the same statute.

THE REGISTRAR.

The Registrar of the University is elected by Convocation. He must be a Master of Arts or a Bachelor of Civil Law. He attends all meetings of the Hebdomadal Council, of both Congregations, and of Convocation, and registers all acts, such as Graces, Admissions to Degrees, Elections, Decrees, Statutes, Letters, Addresses, Leases, and other documents to which the common seal of the University is affixed. The emoluments of the office formerly varied, depending on the number of persons admitted to degrees and on other circumstances: the annual stipend is now fixed at £600. A statute made by the University Commissioners in 1881 renders the Registrar subject to the jurisdiction of the Visitorial Board created by the same statute.

THE SECRETARY TO THE BOARDS OF FACULTIES.

Under a statute made by the University Commissioners in 1882 Boards were established to which was entrusted the general supervision of the courses of instruction given within the University in the Faculties of Theology, Law, Arts, and Natural Science. The Vice-Chancellor and Proctors were empowered to appoint a Secretary to such Boards, who at first held office for three years only. Subsequent legislation by the University itself has widely extended the range of the Secretary's duties, and he now acts as Secretary not only to the boards of Faculties but also to the boards of Studies, to the boards and committees charged with the nomination of examiners, and to the boards of trustees of University scholarships and prizes. He is also required to keep the registers of examinations, and of the appointment of examiners.

The Secretary and the Registrar may, with the approval of the Vice-Chancellor, arrange for the discharge by either, in whole or in part, of the duties of the other, and one or other of them is obliged to be present on all occasions on which the business of the University requires it.

The office of Secretary is now tenable for life. The Secretary is appointed by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors, and receives a stipend of £400 a year.

Secretaries.

PROFESSORSHIPS.

THE pages immediately following contain an account of the foundation of each of the Professorships now existing within the University, and of the manner in which the appointments to them are made.

One of the chief features in the legislation carried out by the University Commissioners under the Act of 1877 was the augmentation of the value of many of the Professorships, by attaching to them Fellowships and other emoluments drawn from the revenues of Colleges, while the endowment of many new Chairs was provided for from the same sources.

As a general rule Professorships are now tenable for life. Except in the case of those Chairs the appointment to which belongs to the Crown, and of a few others, the election to every Professorship is vested in an Electoral Board consisting of not fewer than five or more than seven members, and provision is made for the representation on each Board of the College (if any) from whose revenues the Professorship is endowed or augmented.

The general duties of Professors are regulated under a Statute made by the Commissioners defining the amount of residence, number of lectures, and course of instruction required of each. The particular duties assigned to each Professor are partly regulated by the same Statute, and partly by Statutes made by the same Commissioners for the several Professorships. There is a Visitation Board, consisting of the Vice-Chancellor and six other members of the University of the degree of M.A. at the least, to which is committed inter alia the duty of enforcing the performance of the obligations attaching to the Professorships.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIPS OF DIVINITY, CIVIL LAW, MEDICINE, HEBREW, AND GREEK.

These five Professorships, founded by King Henry VIII, were settled and confirmed by him in 1546. To each of them he assigned a yearly stipend of £40, to be paid by the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, then newly founded; but they relieved themselves of the charge by making over to the King certain estates with which he had partly endowed them, and the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church were then charged by the King with the payment of the stipends of the Professors of Divinity, Hebrew, and Greek; the Professors of Civil Law and Medicine receiving theirs from the Royal Exchequer. The appointment to each Professorship is made by the Crown.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY.

King James I augmented the endowment of this Professorship by annexing to the chair, in 1605, a canonry of Christ Church and the rectory of Ewelme in Oxfordshire. The Rectory was subsequently severed from the Professorship by an Act of Parliament passed in 1871.

Under statutes made for All Souls College by the University Commissioners of 1877 the endowment of the Professorship has been augmented to £700 a year from the College revenues, and a Fellowship in the College, with an emolument of £200 a year, is also attached to the chair.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF MEDICINE.

King James I augmented the endowment of this Professorship by annexing to the chair, in 1617, the Mastership of the Hospital at Ewelme in Oxfordshire. The endowment was further augmented by the addition of the Tomlins Prælectorship of Anatomy, in 1624, and of the Aldrichian Professorship of Anatomy, in 1808. These however were separated from the Regius Professorship by a statute approved by the Queen in Council in 1858, and the Aldrichian Professorship of the Practice of Medicine, with an emolument of about £130 a year, was then annexed to the chair. The Professor acts as an examiner in all examinations for degrees in Medicine granted by the University.

MARGARET PROFESSORSHIP OF DIVINITY.

This Professorship, the oldest existing in the University, was founded in 1502 by Margaret, Countess of Richmond, mother of Henry VII, and endowed with an annual pension of twenty marks. In 1627 King Charles I annexed to it a prebend in Worcester Cathedral, which was commuted by Act of Parliament in 1840 for a canonry of Christ Church. Originally the election was vested in the graduates in Divinity, and the office became vacant every two years, but was continued by re-election. Now, from 1858, not only all graduates in Divinity, but all those members of the Congregation of the University who are at least in Deacon's Orders, are electors, and the election is for life. The Professor must be either a graduate in Divinity or a Master of Arts of seven years' standing and in Priest's Orders.

SAVILIAN PROFESSORSHIPS OF GEOMETRY AND ASTRONOMY.

In the year 1619 Sir Henry Savile, Knight, Warden of Merton College, founded and endowed two Professorships, one in Geometry, and the other in Astronomy. The Professors were to be persons of good character and repute, well skilled in mathematics, and twenty-six years of age, and might be chosen from any part of Christendom: if Englishmen, they were to be M.A. at the least.

Under statutes made for New College by the Commissioners of 1877 a Fellowship in the College, with an emolument of £200 a year, is attached to each Chair, and in addition to the income of such Fellowship and to that arising from the Savilian endowment, made up by the University to £300 a year, each Professor receives from the College an annual payment of £400; this last payment, however, in years when the income from the Savilian endowment exceeds £300, is reduced by the amount of the excess. The effect of these provisions is that the emoluments of each Professorship are not less than £900 a year.

SAVILIAN PROFESSOR OF GEOMETRY.

The Professor is elected by a Board consisting of the Chancellor of the University, the President of the Royal Society, the Warden of New College, a person nominated on each occasion by the Warden and Fellows of New College to act as an Elector on that occasion, the Sadlerian Professor of Pure Mathematics in the University of Cambridge, the Sedleian Professor of Natural Philosophy, and a person nominated on each occasion by the Hebdomadal Council to act as an elector on that occasion. If the Warden of New College is unable to act as an elector, the College may appoint a person to act in his stead.

If the Warden of New College is unable to act as an elector, the College may appoint a person to act in his stead.

The Professor has the charge of the University Observatory (see post, p. 104).

SEDLERIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.

This Professorship was founded by Sir William Sedley, of Aylesford in Kent, Bart., who by his Will, dated October 20, 1618, bequeathed the sum of £2000 to the University, to be laid out in the purchase of lands, for its endowment; this bequest took effect in 1621. The stipend arising from the endowment now amounts to about £200 a year, and is for the present augmented by an annual payment of £470 from the revenues of Queen's College.

Under statutes made for that College by the Commissioners of 1877 this augmentation is hereafter to be increased from the College revenues by such an amount as shall raise the income of the Professorship to £900 a year.

The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the President of the Royal Society, the Provost of Queen's College, a person nominated on each occasion by Queen's College to act as an elector on that occasion, the Professor of Experimental Philosophy, the Savilian Professor of Geometry, and a person nominated on each occasion by the Hebdomadal Council to act as an elector on that occasion. If the Provost of Queen's College is unable to act as an elector, the College may appoint a person to act in his stead.

WHITE'S PROFESSORSHIP OF MORAL PHILOSOPHY.

This Professorship was founded in the year 1621 by Thomas White, D.D., Canon of Christ Church, who charged an estate in Essex, which he then conveyed to the University, with an annual stipend of £100 for the Professor and with other payments. He made the chair tenable for five years only, or at the most for ten, and appointed the Vice-Chancellor, the Dean of Christ Church, the Presidents of Magdalen and St. John's, and the two Proctors, to be the electors.

In 1673 a practice began of electing one of the Proctors, usually the Senior, to the office; in course of time the lectures were entirely dropped; and at length the Professorship was so far forgotten, that it was never mentioned in the Oxford Calendar before the year 1831, the practice having continued, with one exception only, till February 1829.

The Professorship was established on a new footing by a statute approved by the Queen in Council in 1858.

It is now regulated by statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877, under which the stipend of the Professor will be ultimately raised to £900 a year, namely, £100 from the original endowment, and the residue, including the emoluments of a Fellowship in Corpus Christi College attached to the Professorship, from the revenues of that College.

The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Margaret Professor of Divinity, the Regius Professor of Modern History, the Vinerian Professor of English Law, the Waynflete Professor of Moral and Metaphysical Philosophy, a member of Corpus Christi College nominated on each occasion by the College to act as an elector on that occasion, and a person nominated as a permanent elector by Corpus Christi College, subject to the approval of Convocation.

CAMDEN PROFESSORSHIP OF ANCIENT HISTORY.

The Professorship of Ancient History was founded in the year 1622 by William Camden, Esq., Clarencieux King at Arms, who endowed it with an annual stipend of £140, charged upon the manor of Bexley in Kent, which he gave to the University.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and Brasenose College respectively, the original endowment is augmented from the revenues of the College to £900 a year, and the Professor is ex officio a Fellow of that Society.

The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Regius Professor of Greek, the Corpus Christi Professor of the Latin Language and Literature, the Regius Professor of Modern History, and a person nominated on each occasion by the Principal and Fellows of Brasenose College to act as an elector on that occasion.

TOMLINS PROFESSORSHIP OF ANATOMY.

A Lecture in Anatomy was founded in 1624 by Richard Tomlins, Esq., of Westminster, who assigned it to be held by the Regius Professor of Medicine for the time being; and to this was annexed in 1803 the Professorship of Anatomy founded in 1798 by George Aldrich, D.M., Merton College. By a statute, approved by the Queen in Council in 1858, both were annexed to the Linacre Professorship of Physiology.

Under the statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877, the emoluments arising from the joint foundations are applied, in such manner as the University may from time to time determine, to the payment of a Demonstrator or Demonstrators in Anatomy appointed by the Linacre Professor of Comparative Anatomy.

PROFESSORSHIP OF MUSIC, WITH OFFICES OF CHORAGUS AND PRÆCENTOR.

William Heather, Doctor in Music, founded this Professorship in the year 1626, making the office annual, and vesting the appointment in the Proctors. He also made provision for a Choragus, or Master of Musical Praxis, to be elected by the Vice-Chancellor, the Dean of Christ Church, the Warden of New College, and the Presidents of Magdalen and St. John's. He assigned to his Professor a stipend of £3, to which the University at once added £2 5s. (a sum previously received by the Reader in Moral Philosophy), and to which Nathaniel, Lord Crewe, Bishop of Durham, afterwards added £30. The stipend of the Choragus is £13 6s. 8d.

There was also a Præcentor or Coryphæus, nominated by the Professor of Music subject to the approval of Convocation, to assist the Choragus. This office came to an end in 1899.

The stipend of the Professor is augmented to £100 out of the University chest, besides the benefaction of Lord Crewe. The stipend of the Choragus remains as Dr. Heather left it.

By a statute, approved by the Queen in Council in 1857, and amended in 1897, the Professor is nominated, subject to the approval of Convocation, by the Vice-Chancellor, the Warden of New College, the President of Magdalen, the Dean of Christ Church, the President of St. John's, the Proctors, the Savilian Professors, and the Professor of Poetry, and holds office for life. The Choragus is nominated, subject to the approval of Convocation, by the Professor, and holds office at the Professor's will.

LAUDIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF ARABIC.

Founded in 1636 by William Laud, Archbishop of Canterbury, and Chancellor of the University, who endowed it with lands in the parish of Bray, Berks.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and St. John's College respectively, the Professor will ultimately receive, in addition to the emoluments arising from Archbishop Laud's benefaction, an annual payment of £450 from the revenues of the College. From the time when such sum shall become payable the holder of the Professorship is to be ex officio a Fellow of the College.

The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Secretary of State for India, the President of St. John's College, the Regius Professor of Hebrew, the Boden Professor of Sanskrit, and Bodley's Librarian. If the President of St. John's College is unable to act as an elector, the College may appoint a person to act in his stead.

PROFESSORSHIP OF BOTANY.

In compliance with the Will of Henry Danvers, Earl of Danby, by whose munificence during the period 1622-1633 the Botanic Garden was founded, the impropriate Rectory of Kirkdale in Yorkshire was conveyed to the University for the purpose, 1. of paying £40 a year to a gardener; 2. of building a house for the gardener; 3. of defraying the necessary expenses of the garden; and then (if possible) establishing a Professor. This bequest took effect in 1659; and in 1669, although the revenue was very small, the University elected a Professor, assigning to him a stipend of £40 a year. But that Professor, Dr. Morison, stands alone; no immediate successor was elected by Convocation.

In 1728, William Sherard, D.C.L., sometime Fellow of St. John's College, bequeathed to the University his Library and very valuable Herbarium, and £3000 for the endowment of a Professorship, vesting the nomination in the College of Physicians. Dr. Sherard's bequest took effect in 1734, and, in compliance with a condition in his Will, the University then charged its rents and revenues with an annual payment of £150 for the maintenance of the garden.

In 1793 King George III granted the sum of £200 yearly, which was reduced by fees of office to £182, half to augment the stipend of the Professor, and half towards the maintenance of the garden; which sum, since the remission of certain stamp duties in 1855, has been paid from the University Chest in the following proportions, £100 to the Professor and £82 to the Curators of the garden.

To this foundation Dr. Sibthorp (who was Professor of Botany 1784-96) attached a Professorship of Rural Economy<sup>1</sup>, but the two Professorships are now separated, a Statute made for Magdalen College by the University Commissioners of 1877 having provided that in the event of the two Professorships ceasing to be combined, but not otherwise, a Fellowship in the College should be attached to the Professorship of Botany, and further that the emoluments of that Professorship should be augmented from the College revenues to £300 a year.

The Professor of Botany is elected by a Board consisting of the Visitor and the President of Magdalen College, the Presidents of the Linnæan Society and of the College of Physicians, a person (at present Sir W. T. Thiselton-Dyer, M.A., K.C.M.G., F.R.S., Ch. Ch.) nominated by the Hebdomadal Council as a permanent elector, subject to approval by Convocation, the Linacre Professor of Comparative Anatomy, and the Professor of Botany in the University of Cambridge.

The charge and supervision of the Botanic Garden are committed to the Professor of Botany, to be exercised by him subject to such authority as may for the time being be vested in the Curators of the garden.

PROFESSORSHIP OF POETRY.

Founded by Henry Birkhead, sometime of Trinity, afterwards Fellow of All Souls, a Barrister of the Inner Temple, and D.C.L., who bequeathed for the endowment an estate in the County of Durham, since sold by the University. His bequest took effect in 1708.

The yearly stipend of the Professorship consists of about £170 from the proceeds of the sale of the estate, and is increased by £20 from the benefaction of Nathaniel, Lord Crewe, Bishop of Durham. The Professor is elected by Convocation for five years, on the expiration of which he may be re-elected for five years more. No Professor may hold office for more than ten years, and a retiring Professor may not be immediately followed by another Professor from the same College or Society. The Professor must be at the least a Master of Arts or a Bachelor of Civil Law.

THE LORD ALMONER'S PROFESSORSHIP OF ARABIC.

The origin of this Professorship cannot be ascertained, for the records of the Almonry Office anterior to the year 1724 perished in a fire which took place many years ago in St. James's Palace. But it is probable that the first appointment was made in the reign of George I, and that no person held it before the eminent Orientalist John Gagnier, whose name is now the first on record, and who, in 1717, was appointed by the Vice-Chancellor to give public lectures in Arabic in the absence of the Laudian Professor.

The Professor is appointed by the Lord High Almoner. The yearly stipend, which at first was only £25, was raised to £50 in 1770, but this sum was considerably reduced by fees of office in the Exchequer; it is now stated to be £50 net.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIP OF MODERN HISTORY.

This Professorship was founded by King George I in 1724, with an annual stipend of £400, reduced by fees of office to £371, to be paid from the Exchequer. After the remission of certain stamp duties in 1855 the stipend became a charge on the revenues of the University, and by an ordinance of the University Commissioners of 1855 the endowment was augmented by the annual sum of £250 from the revenues of Oriel College.

Regulations concerning the duties of the Professor were made by Letters Patent under the Great Seal in 1859. The original regulations comprised a scheme for instruction in modern languages, which is now provided by Sir Robert Taylor's bequest.

The Professor is nominated by the Crown.

Under Statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and Oriel College respectively, the stipend of the Professor will ultimately be £900 a year, namely, £300 from the University Chest, and the residue, including the emoluments of a Fellowship in Oriel College annexed to the chair, from the revenues of that College.

PROFESSORSHIP OF EXPERIMENTAL PHILOSOPHY.

This Professorship is due to the bounty of Nathaniel, Lord Crewe, Bishop of Durham 1674—1722, who desired that £80 out of the annual benefaction of £200 which he bequeathed to the University should be paid to a Reader of Experimental Philosophy. It was first established in 1749, when his bequest was received; but public lectures on the subject had been previously given. To the small stipend of £30 King George IV, while Prince Regent, added a grant of £100 a year from the revenues of the Crown; which sum, after the remission of certain stamp duties in 1855, was paid from the University Chest. The University further augmented the stipend to £300 a year; and, under an ordinance of the University Commissioners of 1855, the revenues of Wadham College were charged with a further annual payment to the Professor of £200. Until the year 1863 the Professor was appointed by the Vice-Chancellor alone, afterwards by a Board of electors.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and Wadham College respectively, the total emoluments of the Professorship, exclusive of fees, are ultimately to be not less than £700 or more than £900 a year. A non-stipendiary Fellowship in Wadham College is also to be annexed to the chair.

The Professor is hereafter to be elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Warden of Wadham College, the Sedleian Professor of Natural Philosophy, the Waynflete Professor of Chemistry, and the President of the Royal Society. If the Warden of Wadham College is unable to act as an elector, the College may appoint a person to act in his stead.

On the institution in 1900 of the Wykeham Professorship of Physics it was provided by statute that the subjects on which the Professor of Experimental Philosophy should chiefly lecture and give instruction should be the mechanics of solid and fluid bodies, sound, light and heat. The subjects of electricity and magnetism were at the same time assigned to the Professor of Physics.

The Professor has the charge of the Clarendon Laboratory.

VINERIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF COMMON LAW.

Charles Viner, Esq., by his Will, dated December 20, 1755, left about £12,000 to the University, to establish a Professorship, and to endow such Fellowships and Scholarships of the Common Law, as the produce of his legacy might be thought capable of supporting. His bequest took effect in 1758, and the stipend of the Professorship was then fixed at £200 a year, and the Professor was to be elected by Convocation.

Under a statute approved by the Queen in Council in 1867, the Professor was to be elected by a board thereby constituted, and until there should be a vacancy in the Professorship a Reader was to be appointed from time to time for three years, to give instruction in Civil Law as well as English Law. The first Reader was appointed February 25, 1868, and the Readership was continued until December, 1881.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and All Souls College respectively, the Professor receives the annual proceeds of the trust estate of Mr. Viner's foundation, after payment of the statutory emoluments of the Scholars of that foundation and also the emoluments appropriated to the Professorship out of the revenues of All Souls College. These latter are £200 a year as the emolument of a Fellowship in the College attached to the Professorship, and, in addition, such a sum as, together with what the Professor receives from the Vinerian foundation, shall amount to £700 a year.

The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Chancellor of the University, the Lord Chief Justice of England, the Regius Professor of Civil Law, the Corpus Professor of Jurisprudence, and a person nominated on each occasion by All Souls College to act as an elector on that occasion.

LITCHFIELD TRUST FOR CLINICAL INSTRUCTION.

A Professorship was founded for the reading of clinical lectures in the Radcliffe Infirmary to the students in medicine of the University, by the bounty of George Henry Lee, third Earl of Litchfield of that name, Chancellor of the University; who bequeathed for its endowment some property in London, which in 1780, when his bequest took effect, produced a capital sum exceeding £7000 in £3 per cent. Consolidated Annuities. This Fund is invested in the names of the Chancellor of the University, the Bishop of Oxford, and the President of St. John's College as ex officio Trustees. The Professor was chosen by Convocation, and was to be a Doctor of Medicine of five years' standing.

A statute made for the University by the Commissioners of 1877 directed that the income of the trust fund should be applied in or towards providing clinical instruction in Oxford for members of the University, such instruction to be given by a clinical Professor, or by one or more clinical Lecturer or Lecturers, and empowered the University to make statutes regulating the office of any such Professor or Lecturer.

In exercise of this authority the University in 1883 and subsequently has enacted that the annual income of the endowment shall be applied in and towards providing clinical instruction in medicine and surgery for members of the University at the Radcliffe Infirmary, subject to the approval by the Hebdomadal Council of the rules made from time to time by the Governors of the Infirmary for the admission of students, and for the conduct of the pathological department there. If and so long as the Hebdomadal Council is allowed to nominate four of its members to be associated with the electoral board appointed by the Governors for the appointment of physicians and surgeons of the Infirmary, one of the physicians is to be appointed Litchfield Clinical Lecturer in Medicine, and one of the surgeons Litchfield Clinical Lecturer in Surgery, each receiving three-sevenths of the annual income of the endowment. Each Lecturer is appointed for a term of two years, but is capable of re-appointment. The appointment is made by the Hebdomadal Council after consultation with the medical staff of the Infirmary.

The arrangements between the University and the Governors of the Infirmary may be determined by six months' notice on either side.

RAWLINSONIAN PROFESSORSHIP OF ANGLO-SAXON.

Founded by Richard Rawlinson, D.C.L., of St. John's College, who endowed it with some annual or fee-farm rents, payable out of certain lands in Lancashire. He directed that the Professorship should be tenable for five years only, that the several Colleges in the University should enjoy it one after another, but that St. John's College should have every fifth turn. The endowment took effect in 1795, forty years after his death, according to his desire.

By a statute, sanctioned by the Queen in Council in 1858, the Professorship was made tenable for life, any member of Convocation became eligible, and the range of the Professor's lectures was no longer confined to the language of the Anglo-Saxons, but was made to take in also the history of that people, the old Low-German dialects, and the antiquities of northern Europe. The election was vested in the Congregation of the University, and the stipend was augmented to £300 a year from the University Chest.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 or by the University, the Professor is hereafter to be elected by a board consisting of the Regius Professor of Modern History, the Corpus Christi Professor of Comparative Philology, the Principal Librarian of the British Museum, Bodley's Librarian, and a member of Merton College appointed by the College at each election to act as an elector on that occasion.

On the next vacancy in this Professorship it will be united to the Merton Professorship of English Language and Literature (see post, page 82), and the holder of that Professorship will thereupon become Rawlinson Professor of Anglo-Saxon, as will each succeeding Merton Professor.

ALDRICHIAN PROFESSORSHIPS OF ANATOMY, THE PRACTICE OF MEDICINE, AND CHEMISTRY.

These three Professorships were founded by George Aldrich, D.M., sometime of Merton College, who by his Will, proved Jan. 26, 1798, bequeathed the residue of his property for their endowment in equal portions. This fund now amounts to £12,794 10s. 2d.

The revenues of the Professorship of Anatomy, (which was annexed by the founder himself to the Tomlins Prælectorship, and so to the Regius Professorship of Medicine,) have by various enactments, and ultimately by a statute made by the Commissioners of 1877 concerning the Linacre Professor of Comparative Anatomy, been made applicable to the payment of a Demonstrator or Demonstrators in Anatomy appointed by that Professor.

The Professorship of the Practice of Medicine, which at first was in the gift of Convocation, and was held from 1803 to 1824 by Dr. Bourne, afterwards Clinical Professor, and from 1824 to 1857 by Dr. Ogle, Clinical Professor, was annexed under a statute, sanctioned by the Queen in Council in 1858, and still operative, to the Regius Professorship of Medicine.

The Professorship of Chemistry was in the gift of Convocation. The stipend was augmented by King George IV, while Prince Regent, by a grant of £100 from the revenues of the Crown; which sum, since the remission of certain stamp duties in 1855, has been paid from the University Chest: and the whole is now, since the suppression of the Professorship in 1866, applied to the payment of the salary of a Demonstrator, and to the purchase of chemical apparatus or other means towards the promotion of the study of chemistry in the University.

PROFESSORSHIP OF RURAL ECONOMY.

This Professorship was founded under the will of John Sibthorp, D.M., University College, Professor of Botany 1784-96, and attached by him to the Sherardian Professorship of Botany.

By a statute made by the University Commissioners of 1877 the two Professorships have been separated, and under a scheme sanctioned by the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice in 1883 the Professor of Rural Economy is elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Sherardian Professor of Botany, the Professor of Geology, the Waynflete Professors of Physiology and of Chemistry, and the Presidents of the Royal and the Linnean Societies.

The Professor holds office for three years from election, at the end of which period he may be re-elected for a second term of three years, but no Professor may hold the Professorship for more than six years consecutively. He is to lecture and give instruction on the scientific principles of Agriculture and Forestry.

A stipend of £200 a year, derived from Dr. Sibthorp's endowment, is assigned to the chair, but owing to the insufficiency of the income of the trust estate it has been found necessary from time to time to allow the Professorship to remain vacant.

PROFESSORSHIPS OF MINERALOGY AND GEOLOGY.

Lectures in Mineralogy and Geology having been delivered before the University by permission of the Vice-Chancellor, King George IV, while Prince Regent, was pleased to endow two chairs for those subjects by a grant of £100 a year for each from the revenues of the Crown, the former in 1813, the latter in 1818. The stipends, after the remission of certain stamp duties in 1855, were paid from the University Chest, and the University augmented them by the further annual payment of £150 to the Professor of Mineralogy and of £300 to the Professor of Geology, subject to certain conditions, whereof residence was one. The Professors were appointed by the Vice-Chancellor.

WAYNFLETE PROFESSORSHIP OF MINERALOGY.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and Magdalen College respectively, the Professor is styled the Waynflete Professor of Mineralogy, and receives a stipend of £500 a year, namely, £100 from the University Chest, and the residue, including the emoluments of a Fellowship in the College attached to the Professorship, from the revenues of Magdalen College.

He is elected by a board consisting of the Visitor and the President of Magdalen College, the Professor of Experimental Philosophy, the Waynflete Professor of Chemistry, the Professor of Mineralogy in the University of Cambridge, the President of the Royal Society, and a person appointed on each occasion by the Hebdomadal Council to act as an elector on that occasion. If the President of Magdalen College is unable to act as an elector, the College may appoint a person to act in his stead.

The Professor has charge of the mineralogical collection belonging to the University.

not less than £700 or more than £900 a year; the requirements as to residence by the Professor varying according to the stipend received by him for the time being.

The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Waynflete Professor of Chemistry, the Linacre Professor of Comparative Anatomy, the Professor of Geology in the University of Cambridge, and the President of the Royal Society.

PROFESSORSHIP OF POLITICAL ECONOMY.

Founded in the year 1825 by Henry Drummond, Esq., of Albury Park, in the county of Surrey, and formerly of Christ Church, who charged his estate with a yearly rent of £100 for the endowment. The Professor was to be elected by Convocation. The Professorship was not tenable for more than five years, and at first no one could be re-elected to it until after an interval of two years, but this latter restriction was abolished by a statute made in December, 1867.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and All Souls College respectively, the emoluments derived from Mr. Drummond's benefaction are to be augmented from the revenues of the College to £300 a year, and the Professor is to receive from the same source the additional yearly sum of £200 as the emolument of a Fellowship to be held by him in the College.

The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Chancellor of the University, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Regius Professor of Modern History, White's Professor of Moral Philosophy, and a person nominated on each occasion by the Warden and Fellows of All Souls College to act as an elector on that occasion. ## BODEN PROFESSOR OF SANSKRIT.

The late Joseph Boden, Esq., Colonel in the East India Company's service, bequeathed the whole of his property to the University, for the purpose of promoting the study of Sanskrit literature, "being of opinion that a more general and critical knowledge of the Sanskrit language will be a means of enabling his Countrymen to proceed in the conversion of the Natives of India to the Christian Religion, by disseminating a knowledge of the Sacred Scriptures amongst them, more effectually than all other means whatsoever." Regulations for carrying his purpose into effect by establishing a Professorship and Scholarships were made by Decrees of the Court of Chancery in 1830 and 1860.

The yearly stipend of the Professor now amounts to £1000, which sum it is never to exceed.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and Balliol College respectively, a non-stipendiary Fellowship in that College is attached to the Professorship, and the Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Secretary of State for India, the Corpus Christi Professor of Comparative Philology, the Professor of Sanskrit in the University of Cambridge, a person nominated on each occasion by the Hebdomadal Council, subject to the approval of Convocation, to act as an elector on that occasion, and a person nominated on each occasion by Balliol College to act as an elector on that occasion.

WYKEHAM PROFESSORSHIP OF LOGIC.

Anciently it was the duty of every Regent in Arts to give instruction in the Arts in which he had graduated; afterwards the University provided that in four of them, for which no chair had been endowed, namely, Grammar, Rhetoric, Logic, and Metaphysics, lectures should be regularly given by readers appointed for the purpose, who received stipends from a small tax levied upon the inceptors of each year and upon those students who were bound to attend the lectures. After the introduction of the first Procuratorial Cycle in 1629, these readers were chosen according to that cycle, and held office for two years. At length these lectures, like the lectures on Moral Philosophy, fell into disuse, and even the form of electing readers was dropped, although the tax for their maintenance was still collected. This continued till the year 1839, when a statute was passed, which, dealing with the subject of Logic only, directed that there should be a regular Prælector of Logic, elected by Convocation for a period of ten years, but capable of re-election, who should receive as his stipend the produce of a small tax imposed upon all Members of the University below the degree of Master of Arts. By subsequent statutes the stipend was raised to £400 a year, and the Professorship made tenable for life.

Under statutes made by the Commissioners of 1877 for the University and New College respectively, the Professorship is now styled the Wykeham Professorship of Logic; a Professor-Fellowship in New College is attached to the chair; and the stipend is fixed at £900 a year, namely, £400 from the University Chest, and £300, with the emoluments, amounting to £200, of an Ordinary Fellowship, from the revenues of New College. The Professor is elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Sedleian Professor of Natural Philosophy, White's Professor of Moral Philosophy, a person nominated on each occasion by the Warden and Fellows of New College to act as an elector on that occasion, and a person (at present D. B. Monro, M.A., Provost of Oriel) nominated as a permanent elector by the Hebdomadal Council, subject to the approval of Convocation.

REGIUS PROFESSORSHIPS OF PASTORAL THEOLOGY AND ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY.

An Act of Parliament of the year 1840 (3 and 4 Vict. c. 113) directed that two canonries of Christ Church should be annexed to two new Professorships, which Her Majesty was intending to found in this University; and in 1842 these two chairs were established by letters patent under the great seal, the University having undertaken to pay a yearly stipend of £300 to each Professor until he should succeed to his canonry. The first canonry fell vacant in 1849, the second in 1858.

HOPE PROFESSORSHIP OF ZOOLOGY.

Founded in 1861 by the Rev. Frederick William Hope, M.A. and Hon. D.C.L., formerly of Ch. Ch., to whose munificence the University is also indebted for a large entomological collection, a library of natural history, and a vast collection of engraved portraits, and endowed by him with a capital sum of £10,000 New £3 per cent. annuities. Mr. Hope died in the early part of 1862; and shortly afterwards his widow, in fulfilment of his intentions, transferred to the University a second sum of £10,000 in the like stock, and assigned one-third of the dividends to the Professor in augmentation of his stipend. Mrs. Hope assigned another third part of the dividends as a stipend for the Keeper of the Hope collection of engravings, and directed the remainder to be applied in equal portions to keeping up and increasing the two Hope collections. In December, 1864, Mrs. Hope gave a further sum of £1666 18s. 4d. in the like stock, to augment the stipend of the Keeper of the engravings, for the purpose of enabling him to employ an assistant and to meet expenses incidental to his duties. Owing to a change of investment the annual income of the combined endowments now amounts to about £660, of which the Professor's share is eight-thirteenths, the Keeper's three-thirteenths, and the residue is paid to the Curators of the Hope collections.

The Founder himself nominated the first Professor; but the election is now vested in the Curators of the Hope collections and the Linacre Professor of Comparative Anatomy. At the time of his admission he must be at least a Master of Arts or a Bachelor of Civil Law or Medicine. He is required to give public lectures and private instruction on zoology, with special reference to the articulata; also to superintend and arrange the Hope collection of annulose animals, and to take charge of the natural history portion of the Hope library.

The Hope Curators are the Vice-Chancellor, the Proctors, the Regius Professor of Medicine, the Keeper of the Ashmolean Museum, and the Hope Professor by virtue of their respective offices, with two non-official Curators, nominated as occasion may require by the Curators for the time being, subject to the approval of Convocation. The present non-official Curators are William H. Jackson, M.A., New College, and Frederick A. Dixey, D.M., Fellow of Wadham.

FORD'S LECTURERSHIP OF ENGLISH HISTORY.

In 1870 the University accepted a bequest of £2000 in £3 per cent. Reduced Annuities, given by the will of James Ford, B.D., formerly Fellow of Trinity College and vicar of Navestock, Essex. Under the directions of the will the income of the bequest was to accumulate until it produced the clear annual sum of £100, which was to be applied for the founding and endowing of a Professor, to be called Ford's Professor of English History. The accumulation having reached the prescribed limit, a statute was in 1894 presented to the University regulating the mode of appointment to, and the duties of, the chair. The statute failed to find acceptance, mainly on the ground that the stipend was not adequate to the position of a Professor. Permission was thereupon obtained from the Chancery Division of the High Court to change the title of Professor to that of Lecturer, and in 1896 the Lecturership was constituted on the following terms. The Lecturer is elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, three persons appointed by the Hebdomadal Council, and three by the Board of the Faculty of Arts (Modern History). The election takes place in Hilary term, the Lecturer entering upon office in the following Michaelmas term. The Lecturer holds office for one year, and is not re-eligible until after the lapse of four years. He is to deliver not less than six lectures, either in Michaelmas or Hilary term, or partly in one, partly in the other. The salary attached to the office is £100.

WILDE'S READERSHIP IN MENTAL PHILOSOPHY.

This Readership was founded in 1898 by Henry Wilde, F.R.S., of Alderley Edge, Cheshire, who endowed it with a capital sum sufficient to produce an income of not less than £400, at which amount the Reader's stipend is fixed.

The Reader is appointed by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Waynflete Professor of Moral and Metaphysical Philosophy, the Wykeham Professor of Logic, White's Professor of Moral Philosophy, the Regius Professor of Medicine, a person (at present Edward Caird, M.A., Hon. D.C.L., Master of Balliol College) nominated as a permanent elector by the Hebdomadal Council with the approval of Convocation, and a person appointed on each occasion by the Hebdomadal Council to act as an elector on that occasion.

He holds the office for five years, but is re-eligible.

For the purpose of this Readership the term Mental Philosophy is defined as "the study of the human mind based on observation and experience as distinguished from Experimental Psychology." The Reader is required from time to time to lecture on the illusions and delusions which are incident to the human mind, and, so far as practicable, on the psychology of the lower races of mankind as illustrated by various fetish-objects in the Anthropological Museum of the University, and in other Museums.

COMMON UNIVERSITY FUND READERSHIPS AND LECTURERSHIPS.

A statute made by the University Commissioners of 1877 directed the appointment of a number (to be ultimately not less than seven) of University Readers, whose duty it should be to lecture and give instruction in the subject or branch of study for which they were respectively appointed, having regard to the arrangements made or proposed to be made by the Professors, if any, lecturing in the same department of study.

The emoluments of these Readers are provided out of a fund called the Common University Fund, chiefly derived from the annual revenues of Colleges under the authority of the statute concerning College Contributions for University Purposes. The administration of this fund is committed to a board designated the Delegates of the Common University Fund. Every appointment of a University Reader is made by these Delegates or by persons nominated by them for the purpose. The ordinary stipend of a Reader is £300 a year, and the Readerships are generally tenable for a term not exceeding five years. The University however has power by statute or decree to make other regulations respecting these and similar matters.

In order to provide necessary instruction for students who have been selected, after competitive examination in London, for the Civil Service of the Crown in India, the University in 1859 appointed a Teacher of the Hindustani language, assigning him an annual stipend of £150 from the University Chest, and allowing him to receive certain fees. This Teachership was, in 1878, made a Teachership of Hindustani and Persian. The Teachership of Hindustani and Persian was subsequently abolished, and two new Teacherships, one of each language, were formed. A Teachership of Telugu was also instituted.

It is proper here briefly to notice a Professorship and two Readerships of comparatively recent origin which have, through various circumstances, now ceased to exist.

PROFESSORSHIP OF MODERN EUROPEAN LANGUAGES.

This Professorship was founded in fulfilment of the intention of Sir Robert Taylor, (refer to the article on the Taylor Institution,) and endowed with a stipend of £500 a year from the Taylor fund. It was suppressed in 1869 when the Professorship of Comparative Philology was founded. The Professor was elected by the Curators of the Institution, subject to the approval of Convocation, for a term of five years, and was re-eligible. He was to be matriculated before his admission to office.

It was prolonged by subsequent Decrees of Convocation until the end of Michaelmas Term 1883. The Reader was a Member of Convocation, elected by a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Principal and one of the Fellows of Brasenose, the Camden Professor of Ancient History, White's Professor of Moral Philosophy, Chichele's Professor of International Law and Diplomacy, and the Senior Examiner in the Classical School.

The Reader was elected by a board consisting of the Regius Professor of Civil Law, Chichele's Professor of International Law and Diplomacy, the Corpus Professor of Jurisprudence, the Chairman for the time being of the Council of Legal Education appointed by the Inns of Court in London, and a person nominated by the Warden and Fellows of All Souls College, with a view to each election.

The Reader was required to lecture, and to give private instruction, on Roman Law and the sources and history thereof. He received an annual stipend of £400 from the revenues of All Souls College.

BODLEIAN LIBRARY.

IN the year 1480 the room over the Divinity School, which is now the central limb of the public portion of the Bodleian Library, and which was then just finished, became the repository of the books which the University had acquired by gift from various benefactors, especially from Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, who also contributed liberally to the building. But before the end of the reign of Edward VI, partly through careless management, and partly through extravagant zeal, this library had been entirely rifled of its contents, not one volume remaining; and in 1556 the University, hopeless of its restoration, sold the benches and fittings, and left the walls bare. In this state it remained above forty years, till in 1598 Thomas Bodley, sometime Fellow of Merton College, resolved to restore the room to the purpose for which it was built, and to provide for the maintenance of the library therein by an endowment in land; and he not only himself contributed largely in money and books, but he also procured similar contributions from so many of his friends and other persons, that the library when again opened for use in November, 1602, contained upwards of 2,000 volumes.

During the next few years books were given beyond what the room could hold, and in 1610 the founder, now Sir Thomas Bodley, Knight, proceeded to build an addition to it towards the east with a Proscholium to the Divinity School below, but he died in January, 1613, before this enlargement was quite finished. By his will he made provision for adding a third floor round the intended quadrangle of the Schools, which at first was to have had two floors only, and for connecting this (now the Picture Gallery) with his library; and these directions show that he contemplated that other extension towards the west, the want of which was felt in less than twenty years after his death, and which, with the Convocation House below, was begun in 1634 and finished in about four years.

The collection of books has been continually increasing, by donations, some of which have been of great extent and value, by the right to a copy of every work published in this country, a right to which Sir Thomas Bodley himself gave the origin in a grant which he obtained in 1610 from the Stationers' Company, and by purchase; so that now the Library comprises more than 625,000 volumes, and occupies every room in the quadrangle of the old Schools, except those appropriated to the University Archives, and one assigned to the Hope Collection of Engraved Portraits.

The Picture Gallery, which has been already mentioned as appurtenant to the library, contains portraits of many eminent persons, benefactors or former members of the University, models of many edifices both ancient and modern, and many other objects of interest.

The library is under the control of a Board of Curators, consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Proctors, the Regius Professors of Divinity, Civil Law, Medicine, Hebrew, and Greek, and five members of the Congregation of the University elected for ten years by that House. Its administration is committed to the charge of a Librarian, elected by the Curators and approved by Convocation, with an annual stipend of £1000. He is assisted by two Under-Librarians, nominated by himself, subject to the approval of the Curators and of Convocation; they receive a yearly stipend of not less than £300 or more than £400 each. There are also Assistants, appointed by the Librarian, subject to the approval of the Curators.

All Graduate members of the University have a right to study in the library. Other persons are admitted there on presenting a satisfactory recommendation.

By an arrangement with Dr. Radcliffe's trustees, the building formerly known as the Radcliffe Library is now used as a reading room in connexion with the Bodleian Library, under the name of Camera Bodleiana (see post, pp. 98 and 103).

CLARENDON PRESS.

The first book printed at Oxford bears the date 1468 (generally regarded as an error for 1478), and between that year and 1487 at least fifteen books were issued from the Oxford Press. Of these, two (in 1481 and 1485) are stated in their colophon to be printed in alma Universitate Oxoniæ, which may imply some patronage on the part of the University. The printers were Theodericus Rood de Colonia and Thomas Hunt. A second press started in December, 1517, in St. John's Street, near Merton College, but only lasted fourteen months, producing in that time seven works. The colophons of six of these attest a similar connexion with the University, and three of them were issued with privilege under an order from the Chancellor, the printers being John Scolar and Charles Kyrfoth. After 1517 there is a long pause in Oxford printing, until in 1584 £100 was lent by Convocation to Joseph Barnes for the equipment of a new printing press, and the following year saw the beginning of a course of book-production which has never since ceased. Joseph Barnes and his successors were styled "Printers to the University," and as early as 1586 a Committee of Convocation was appointed to consider de libris imprimendis. But nothing seems to have been done for establishing a University Press on a really firm footing until Archbishop Laud, in 1632 and 1633, procured letters patent from King Charles I, granting a very large licence of printing to the University, his chief object being the publication of MSS. from the Bodleian Library, to which he himself gave more than thirteen hundred. The Laudian Statutes of 1636 also have a section De typographis, and provide for an Architypographus: but this office was not filled up until Samuel Clarke, the Orientalist, was elected in 1658, and until 1675 no Bible or Prayer-book was issued from the Press.

The work was carried on at first in hired premises; then, from 1669, in the Sheldonian Theatre, the founder of that building having appointed it for this use as well as for great assemblies of the University, and having directed that the surplus of the fund which he gave for the maintenance of the fabric should be "employed for the best advantage and encouragement of the Learned Press there designed and already set at work<sup>1</sup>," next from 1713 in the Clarendon Building, erected expressly for this purpose, and so called in memory of Lord Clarendon, sometime Chancellor of the University, and author of the History of the Great Rebellion. Large gifts of type and other printing materials were made to the Press in the second half of the seventeenth century by Dr. John Fell, Dean of Christ Church and Bishop of Oxford; and also in 1677 by Francis Junius, the famous Anglo-Saxon scholar. In 1830, when the Press had quite outgrown its earlier limits, it was removed to its present buildings, which were begun in 1826 from a design made by Mr. Daniel Robertson, and were finished under the superintendence of Mr. Blore.

<sup>1</sup> Francis, second and last Lord Godolphin of Helstons, who died in 1786, bequeathed 5000*l.* to the University, and directed "the interest thereof to be applied for the benefit of printing and encouragement of learning."

The management of the Press is committed to a Delegacy consisting of the Vice-Chancellor and ten other members of Convocation, who are nominated, as vacancies occur, by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors. Five of the ten are Perpetual Delegates; each new nomination is made for the term of seven years.

The businesses of the Learned Press and the Bible Press were originally under separate administration; but in 1883 the two departments were for the first time united, and one manager, with the title of Controller, was appointed to the general direction of both Presses.

In recent years there has been great expansion in the operations of the Press; new departments have been added and old departments developed, while the printing of books for other publishing firms has become an important part of its work. The operations now conducted on the premises in Oxford and in the immediate neighbourhood include all the trades connected with the printing business, such as paper making, ink making, type founding, stereotyping, and book binding; lithography, photography, and other processes incidental to typography; and engineering; thus rendering the establishment wholly independent of external assistance.

In 1893 the Delegates of the Press built and furnished an Institute in Walton Street for the benefit of their workpeople at a cost of about £5000.

THEATRE.

The Theatre was erected by Gilbert Sheldon, sometime Warden of All Souls College, Archbishop of Canterbury, and Chancellor of the University, to provide for the larger and more solemn assemblies of the University, as well as for the business of the University Press, which was carried on there until the erection of the Clarendon building in 1713. The architect was Sir Christopher Wren. The first stone was laid July 26, 1664, and the building was opened with solemn ceremony on July 9, 1669. Its cost is said to have been £15,000; and the munificent Founder gave £2000 more for the purchase of land to be applied to the repair of the fabric, and the surplus to be for the advantage of the Learned Press. John Wills, D.D., Warden of Wadham College, who died in 1806, left £1000 to keep the building in repair.

The Encenia, or annual commemoration of founders and benefactors, at which honorary degrees are usually conferred on distinguished persons, and the chief prize compositions for the year recited, are celebrated here in the month of June. The basement of the Theatre has been assigned to the Curators of the Bodleian Library as a depository for books.

The care of the Theatre is committed to the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors and three members of Convocation nominated by them (subject to the approval of Convocation), holding office for six years.

ASHMOLEAN BUILDING.

The building known by this name was erected at the charge of the University, partly for the reception of the collection of natural and artificial curiosities given by Mr. Elias Ashmole (1617–1692), additions to which have since been made by many donors, and partly for the promotion of the study of chemistry and natural philosophy. Over the north door was an inscription, now illegible, Museum Ashmoleanum, Schola Naturalis Historiæ, Officina Chymica. The building was commenced in 1679, and finished in 1683, the architect being Mr. Wood, a stonecutter or mason, of Oxford<sup>1</sup>. Dr. Plot, the first Keeper, was thereupon appointed Professor of Chemistry by the Vice-Chancellor.

The Keeper of the Museum was to be nominated by the Visitors appointed by Ashmole's will, namely, the Vice-Chancellor, the Dean of Christ Church, the Principal of Brasenose, the Regius Professor of Medicine, and the Proctors; and Dr. Rawlinson, of St. John's College, endowed the office with a stipend of about £75 a year on certain stringent conditions. The original regulations were superseded by others made in 1858, and these again were abrogated by a statute which received the sanction of the Queen in Council in 1870. By this statute the Vice-Chancellor, the Camden Professor of Ancient History, the Regius Professor of Modern History, and two other members of Convocation to be elected for five years by the Congregation of the University, were constituted Visitors of the Museum. By the same statute the late Mr. John Henry Parker, Hon. M.A., who had made a munificent benefaction in augmentation of the Keeper's salary, was nominated to succeed to the Keepership on the first vacancy: afterwards the Keeper was to be nominated by the Visitors, subject to the approval of Convocation.

The second object for which the building was intended having been provided for by the University Museum, the zoological part of the collection was removed to that institution. The MSS. of Anthony Wood and others, which were deposited here, have been transferred to the Bodleian Library. By an arrangement entered into in 1892 between the University and the late Mr. C. D. E. Fortnum, who during his lifetime and by his will contributed a large number of works of art to the Ashmolean collections, and also gave a large amount of property for the endowment of the Museum, and the augmentation of the Keeper's stipend, an extensive series of rooms was added, at the cost of the University, to the University Galleries in Beaumont Street. To this new building the Ashmolean collections were removed in 1897.

CLARENDON BUILDING.

It has been already stated that the Clarendon Building was erected for a Printing House, and was so used from 1713 until the removal of the business of the Press to the present establishment in Walton Street in 1830. It was begun February 22, 1712. The architect was Mr. Nicholas Hawksmoor<sup>1</sup>, who also built the south quadrangle of Queen's College and the north quadrangle of All Souls College. The name of the building is derived from the Lord Chancellor Clarendon, and its cost was partly defrayed from the profits of the sale of his History of the Rebellion, the copyright of which was given to the University.

Since the removal of the Press to its present site, the Clarendon Building has been used for various public purposes. One of the principal rooms on the ground-floor, then and now the place of meeting of the Delegates of the Press, still retains the name of "the Delegates' Room," and is also used for the meetings of many other University boards and committees. Other rooms in the building are appropriated to the Registrar's office, the offices of the Curators of the University Chest, of the Delegates of Lodging Houses, and of the Boards of Faculties; and, in the basement story are rooms for the accommodation of the University Police.

<sup>1</sup> On the 3rd of October, 1715, the Delegates of the Press voted a gratuity of 100*l.* to Hawksmoor "for his care in drawing and supervising the whole works of the new Printing House."

RADCLIFFE LIBRARY.

This Library owes its foundation to the munificence of the celebrated physician, Dr. John Radcliffe, first of University College, afterwards Fellow of Lincoln, who died in 1714. He bequeathed the bulk of his large property to trustees, to be applied at their discretion to charitable purposes: but he directed them in the first instance to accumulate £40,000, and to lay out that sum on the purchase of the site for his library and on the building. He also gave £100 a year for the maintenance of the fabric, £100 a year for the purchase of books, and £150 a year as a stipend for the librarian. The architect was James Gibbs, a native of Aberdeen. The foundation-stone was laid June 16, 1737, and the building completed in 1747. The Library was opened April 13, 1749, with much public ceremony, by the trustees.

Many years ago the trustees resolved to confine their purchases to works on medicine and natural history; and upon the completion of the University Museum they permitted the books concerning natural science to be removed to the library of that Institution, which may now be regarded as Radcliffe's Library. They have allowed the remaining volumes to be used in connexion with the Bodleian Library, and the building itself to be opened as a Reading Room. (See ante, p. 93.) Between the years 1898 and 1900 a commodious building has at the sole expense of the Worshipful Company of Drapers been erected within the precincts of the University Museum, to which the books and staff of the Radcliffe Library are about to be removed. The architect of the new building is T. G. Jackson, M.A., R.A., sometime Fellow of Wadham College.

The present trustees are the Marquis of Salisbury, K.G., the Duke of Bedford, the Earl of Jersey, Viscount Peel, Sir W. R. Anson, Bart., Warden of All Souls, Sir Edward Grey, Bart., and Henry Boyd, D.D., Principal of Hertford College.

Radcliffe's Librarian, who must be at least a Master of Arts, is elected by the following personages: the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, the Chancellor of the University, the Bishops of London and Winchester, the two principal Secretaries of State, the Lord Chief Justice of England, and the Master of the Rolls. He has charge of the library at the Museum.

RADCLIFFE OBSERVATORY.

This building was erected in 1772-8 out of the funds of Dr. Radcliffe by the Trustees of his Will. It includes apartments for various astronomical and meteorological instruments, computing rooms, a photographic laboratory, and a library. A dwelling-house for the Observer is attached by a covered way to the main building. The architectural designs were successively furnished by Mr. Keene and Mr. James Wyatt, R.A.

The Observer is appointed by the Radcliffe Trustees; the staff includes three Assistants and a Computer, who are appointed by the Observer.

At the time of its completion the building was splendidly equipped with astronomical instruments, and, from time to time, more modern apparatus has been supplied as the advance in the art of astronomical observation rendered necessary. At present a large photographic and visual refracting telescope is in process of construction by Sir Howard Grubb, F.R.S., for the reception of which a tower has been built from the designs of Mr. T. G. Jackson, M.A., R.A.

The Observatory is also fully equipped with standard and self-recording meteorological instruments. It is a station of the first class, and reports are sent daily by telegraph to the Meteorological Office in connexion with the national system of weather reports and forecasts.

Copies, in manuscript, of the early records of observation were deposited in the Library of the Royal Society in London, in the Radcliffe Library, and in the Observatory itself; but from the year 1840 they have been printed by order of the Radcliffe Trustees in a series of 47 octavo volumes, 1840-91: in three General Catalogues of Stars for epochs 1845, 1860, and 1890 respectively; and in numerous papers contributed to the publications of the Royal Society and the Royal Astronomical Society.

TAYLOR INSTITUTION.

Sir Robert Taylor, an architect of eminence in the eighteenth century, bequeathed the residue of his property, amounting to a very considerable sum, to "the Chancellor and Scholars of the University of Oxford and their successors, for the purpose of applying the interest and produce thereof in purchase of freehold land within, or if possible to be made within, the jurisdiction of the said University, for the erecting a proper edifice therein, and for establishing a foundation, for the teaching and improving the European languages in such manner as should from time to time be approved by the said Chancellor and Scholars in Convocation assembled." He died in 1788, but his bequest, being subject to certain contingencies, did not take effect till 1835, and it was not until 1848 that the "proper edifice" which was to be erected could be made fully ready for use. This building, of which C. R. Cockerell, D.C.L., was the architect, comprises a spacious library, several lecture rooms, and apartments for the residence of a Librarian.

The Institution is under the direction of eleven Curators, of whom the Vice-Chancellor, the Proctors, the Regius Professor of Modern History, and the Professor of Comparative Philology, are ex officio; of the other six, who must all be members of Convocation, four are appointed for a period of five years, and two for ten, after which they may be nominated again.

Out of the funds of the Institution are maintained four teacherships of modern European languages, and two Scholarships (see post, p. 145). The Curators are also charged with the application of the proceeds of a fund arising from the bequest of William Thomas Horner, Earl of Ilchester, for the encouragement of the study of the Polish and other Slavonic languages, literature, and history. By a statute passed in 1876, they are authorized to apply the interest of the fund to one or more of the following purposes, at their discretion and in such manner and at such times as they may judge most expedient: (1) The delivery of lectures on subjects connected with the Slavonic languages or literature, or the history of the Slavonic nations: (2) The bestowal of prizes or exhibitions for encouraging the study of those subjects: (3) The publishing, or assisting in the publication of, works in one or other of those subjects.

The Curators are also charged with the custody of a collection of books and works of art bequeathed to the University in 1834 by the Rev. Robert Finch, M.A., of Balliol College, and with the administration of a fund of £1300 left by him for the maintenance and extension of the collection.

The Library is open to all members of the University, and resident members are allowed to take out books subject to its regulations. Literary persons not members of the University are also admissible by special permission. The leading newspapers and periodicals of France, Germany, and Italy, are taken in and lie upon the table. There is a Librarian appointed by the Curators, with a statutable stipend not exceeding £200 a year. The present Librarian is HEINRICH KREBS, Ph. D. of the University of Freiburg in Baden, Hon. M.A.

ASHMOLEAN MUSEUM AND UNIVERSITY GALLERIES.

Some account of the Ashmolean Museum has already been given under the head of the Ashmolean Building.

The University Galleries form the central and western portions of the building of which the Taylor Institution is the eastern, and were designed by the same architect. Francis Randolph, D.D., Principal of St. Alban Hall, who died in 1796, bequeathed £1000 towards the erection of a suitable building for the reception of the Pomfret statues and other works of art; and that sum together with accumulated interest was laid out upon this building, the remainder of the cost being defrayed from moneys belonging to the University. The Galleries were opened in 1845. They contain original works of ancient and modern sculpture: a large number of casts from the antique; the Arundel Marbles removed in 1888 from the Old Schools and from the Ashmolean Building; the original models for the principal works of Sir Francis Chantrey, presented by his widow; a large number of drawings of Michel Angelo and Raffaele, purchased by a subscription towards which the second Earl of Eldon contributed the munificent sum of £4000; and many other works of art of various kinds given to the University since the erection of the Galleries. The principal pictures hang in a large and lofty gallery, and other rooms are appropriated to the reception of the rest of the collections.

A studio for the use of the Slade Professor of Fine Art was added in 1886-7, and between 1892 and 1897 a number of additional rooms were erected on the north side of the original building, to which the objects forming the old Ashmolean collections were removed. The Museum has been further enriched by a large collection of works of art, especially in majolica and bronze, formed by the late Charles D. E. Fortnum, Hon. D.C.L., Hon. Fellow of Queen's College, who died in 1899, and who, both in his lifetime and by his will, largely augmented the endowment of the Museum and of its keeper.

A large room on the ground-floor of the galleries is appropriated to the School of Art founded by the late John Ruskin, M.A., Hon. D.C.L., Ch. Ch., and is under the direction of Mr. Alexander Macdonald, Hon. M.A., Worcester College, Ruskin's Teacher of Drawing. Mr. Macdonald also holds the office of Keeper of the Picture Galleries.

The Institution is now under the management of a Board of Visitors, consisting of the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors, the Regius Professor of Modern History, the Camden Professor of Ancient History, the Slade Professor of Fine Art (if resident), and nine members of Convocation, elected, three by the Hebdomadal Council, three by Congregation, and three by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors. Bodley's Librarian is also an ex officio Visitor so long as any objects which belong to the Library are lent to the Institution; and Henry George Woods, D.D., late President of Trinity, and George Rawlinson, M.A., Exeter, are perpetual Visitors.

UNIVERSITY MUSEUM.

This edifice, intended for the promotion of the study of Natural Science, was erected at the charge of the University from the designs and under the directions of Messrs. Deane and Woodward of Dublin. The first stone was solemnly laid June 20, 1855, by the Earl of Derby, Chancellor of the University, and the building was so nearly finished when the British Association for the Advancement of Science met in Oxford at the end of June, 1860, that every part of it was then used. The iron-work was supplied by Mr. Skidmore of Coventry. The decorative sculpture both without and within is due to the liberality of individual donors: in particular Her Majesty the Queen was pleased to present five of the statues of eminent philosophers which adorn the area; and Woolner's statue of the late Prince Consort, which faces the entrance, was placed here by gentlemen of the City of Oxford, as a memorial of the Prince.

The original Museum consisted of the block facing Park Road, with a wing formed by the hexagonal building projecting to the south, and commonly known as the Glastonbury Kitchen. The interior of the museum formed a quadrangle, enclosed by galleries on the ground and first floors, and covered with a glass roof. The building as originally designed provided accommodation for most of the professors and teachers in the department of Natural Science, as well as for the bulk of the scientific works forming Dr. Radcliffe's Library (see p. 93).

The growth of the study of Natural Science since the completion of the original building has from time to time called for the addition of new laboratories, work-rooms, and lecture-rooms, adjacent to or immediately connected with the principal block.

Of these the Clarendon Laboratory on the north-west was erected in 1872 by the trustees of the bequest of Edward, second Earl of Clarendon, for the use of the Professor of Experimental Philosophy. The Chemical department on the south was greatly enlarged in 1878-9, by the addition of one large and several smaller laboratories, at the cost of the University. On the establishment of the Waynflete Professorship of Physiology in 1883, a detached building on the north-east was erected for the Professor's use, also at the cost of the University. In 1883 the late Major-General Pitt-Rivers, D.C.L., presented his extensive and valuable ethnological collection to the University, on condition of its providing a suitable building for its reception; and to satisfy this obligation the University in 1885-6 erected the spacious annexe on the east side of the Museum in which this collection is now exhibited. More recently a completely equipped laboratory for the use of the Professor of Human Anatomy has been added on the east of the Pitt-Rivers Museum; and at the present time two new buildings are in course of erection, one, to the north of the Museum, being intended for the joint use of the Professor of Comparative Anatomy and of the Professor of Botany; the other, a detached building to the east of the Keeper's House, for a laboratory in connexion with the study of Pathology. Towards this last object Ewan Richard Frazer, B.M., Balliol, has made the munificent contribution of £5000.

Among the many collections illustrative of subjects studied in the Museum, a large part of which is open to the view of students in the area and corridors, may be mentioned: a pathological series in the medical department; models and instruments for experimental physics; minerals, including some of singular rarity given by the late Richard Simmonds, D.M., of Christ Church; fossils, comprising the large collection given by the late Dean Buckland, and Mr. Pengelly's Devonian series presented in 1860 by Baroness Burdett-Coutts; the physiological series belonging to the Anatomy School at Christ Church and lent by the Dean and Chapter; zoological specimens transferred from the Ashmolean Museum; a large collection of shells presented by Lady and Miss Harvey; two large collections of British shells, one given by Sir Walter C. Trevelyan, Bart., M.A., of University College, the other bequeathed by George Barlee, Esq., of Exmouth, who died in 1861; and a large collection of invertebrate animals given by the Rev. F. W. Hope, D.C.L., the founder of the Professorship of Zoology. And, to make these collections more useful to students, the trustees under Dr. Radcliffe's will have allowed the scientific portion of his library to be brought here, and maintain it themselves in the Museum under the charge of Radcliffe's Librarian, reserving however the right to reclaim it if they think fit. A new building for the reception of these books is now (1900) in course of erection on the south side of the principal building, at the sole cost of the Drapers' Company.

The Museum is under the superintendence of a Delegacy consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Proctors, and six other persons chosen by the Congregation of the University. None of the Professors who teach in the Museum can be Delegates, but all of them are summoned to the meetings of the Delegacy and consulted on the questions that arise. It is in the charge of a Keeper, who is appointed by the Delegates, subject to the approval of Convocation, and who has an official residence adjoining on the south-east, and receives a stipend of £80 a year.

Keepers.

- 1857 John Phillips, M.A., Magdalen, Professor of Geology; Hon. D.C.L.
 1854 Henry John Stephen Smith, M.A., Fellow of Corpus; Savilian Professor of Geometry; Fellow of Balliol
 1883 EDWARD BURNETT TYLOR, Hon. D.C.L., M.A., Balliol.

THE PARK.

The University having in 1854 purchased from Merton College ground to the north of Wadham College, forming part of the fields known as the Parks, as a site for the University Museum and for future extensions thereof, proceeded within the next few years to acquire from Merton College the whole of the land lying between Parks Road and the river Cherwell, to which was added in 1865 the walk known as Mesopotamia. The whole of this large area has been laid out and planted as a park and pleasure-ground, open, under regulations made from time to time by the University, for public recreation and enjoyment.

In 1880 a portion of the Park was laid out as a cricket-ground, and a cricket pavilion was erected thereon, the whole being let to the University cricket club from year to year.

The Park is under the management of a board of Curators, consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, or a member of Convocation appointed by him to act in his stead, the Proctors, and four members of Convocation, two elected by the Congregation of the University, and two by the Hebdomadal Council.

UNIVERSITY OBSERVATORY.

In March, 1873, the University resolved to provide for the use of the Professor of Astronomy a large refracting telescope of the highest order of completeness and excellence, by means of which more ample instruction for students in practical astronomy might be afforded, and for original research. In the same year, Mr. Warren De La Rue, Hon. D.C.L. (afterwards M.A., New College), gave for the like purpose a large reflecting telescope, together with other astronomical apparatus, specially adapted for celestial photography and other branches of astronomical physics. An Observatory fitted for the reception of these instruments was built at the cost of the University in 1873-5. The large lecture-room on the north was added in 1877-8.

The Savilian Professor of Astronomy has charge of the Observatory, subject to the superintendence of a board of Visitors, consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Proctors, the Astronomer Royal, the Director of the Cambridge University Observatory, the Radcliffe Observer, and four other persons elected by the Congregation of the University for ten years.

THE SCHOOLS.

This block of buildings, occupying a prominent position on the south side of the High Street, was erected in 1876-1882 to meet the requirements of the public examinations of the University, for which the accommodation provided in the old schools quadrangle was no longer sufficient. The architect was Thomas Graham Jackson, M.A., R.A., sometime Fellow of Wadham College, and the builder, Mr. Albert Estcourt, of Gloucester; most of the carving in wood and stone was executed by Messrs. Farmer and Brindley, of London. The total cost of the building, not including the purchase of the site, exceeded £100,000. The building was first used for the public University examinations in Easter Term, 1882.

In addition to the lofty and spacious entrance-hall, forming the principal feature of the front towards High Street, the building contains two large writing-rooms, each capable of accommodating two hundred candidates, and a third affording space for one hundred and twenty candidates; eleven smaller rooms suitable for viva voce examinations; private rooms for the use of examiners; offices, lavatories, store-rooms, a porter's residence, and an extensive range of rooms in the basement.

All the University examinations, except those involving laboratory practice, are held here, and the building is also available at times for Professors' lectures.

The Schools are under the superintendence of a board of Curators consisting of the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors and three members of Convocation elected by the Congregation of the University.

In 1888 there was added at the north-east corner a building containing offices for the Delegacy of Non-Collegiate Students and rooms for the use of the students themselves, and offices for the Delegacy for the inspection and examination of Schools.

Mr. Jackson was the architect, and Messrs. Parnell & Son of Rugby were the builders, of this building.

In 1897 a building by the same architect was erected at the back of the Schools, and fronting Merton Street, for the accommodation of the Local Examinations Delegacy, the cost being defrayed from funds accumulated by the Delegates.

INDIAN INSTITUTE.

This building, situate at the corner of Broad Street and Holywell Street, was erected at various periods between 1882 and 1896, under the direction of Mr. Basil Champneys, B.A., Cambridge, the architect. The memorial-stone was laid on May 2, 1883, by the Prince of Wales, in the presence of the Chancellor of the University, the Secretary of State for India, and many other distinguished personages, and the building was opened at the commencement of Michaelmas term, 1885. Sir Monier Monier-Williams, K.C.I.E., M.A., Hon. D.C.L., Fellow of Balliol College and Boden Professor of Sanskrit, through whose exertions the funds for the erection of the building were chiefly raised, was appointed first Keeper and Perpetual Curator. He died in 1899.

UNIVERSITY SERMONS AND PREACHERS.

SERMONS are preached before the University, two on each Sunday in full Term; one on Christmas Day, Good Friday, Ascension Day, Lady Day, and the Festivals of St. Mark, and of St. John Baptist. On a day appointed by the Vice-Chancellor, at the beginning of Michaelmas, Hilary, and Easter Terms, the Holy Communion is administered in Latin, and later in the same day the Litany is said, and a sermon preached, both also in Latin. There is also a sermon at the several assizes.

With certain exceptions specified below, the order of preaching is as follows:—

1. The morning sermons on Sundays in term fall to the Dean and Canons of Christ Church, the Heads of Colleges, the Margaret Professor, the Regius Professors of Divinity, Hebrew, Pastoral Theology, and Ecclesiastical History, Dean Ireland's Professor of Exegesis, and the Oriel Professor of the Interpretation of Holy Scripture, in the following order, which however the preachers are at liberty to vary by exchanging turns among themselves:—

Christ Church
Magdalen
New College
Christ Church
All Souls
Merton
Christ Church
Corpus
Queen's
Christ Church
St. John's
Trinity

Christ Church
Brazenose
Oriel
Regius Prof. Div.
Margaret Prof. Div.
Regius Prof. Hebrew
Christ Church
Wadham
Lincoln
Christ Church
University

Exeter
Christ Church
Balliol
Jesus
Christ Church
Pembroke
Worcester
Regius Prof. Past. Theology
Regius Prof. Eccl. Hist.
Prof. Exeg. Script.
Oriel Prof. Interp.

2. The other sermons fall to graduates in the order in which they were admitted to regency as Masters of Arts or to the degree of Bachelor of Civil Law.

To these two rules the exceptions are as follow:—

1. The morning sermons on Sundays in Lent belong to the second order above stated, not to the first; the Bampton Lecture sermons, mentioned below, are delivered in the morning; the preachers on the mornings of Quinquagesima Sunday and the last Sunday after Trinity (on each of which days by a benefaction bequeathed by the Rev. William Master in 1684, a Sermon is preached from one of a limited number of texts upon Humility or upon Pride), of Whitsun Day, and of the Sunday before the Encænica, are appointed by the Vice-Chancellor: the morning sermon on Trinity Sunday is preached by a preacher appointed by New College; and, if any of the festivals mentioned in the next sentence or an assize sermon fall on a Sunday, the exception in that case applies to the morning sermon.

2. The Vice-Chancellor appoints the preacher for the afternoon of every Sunday in Lent<sup>1</sup> in full term, of Whitsun Day, of Trinity Sunday (when by a benefaction given in 1847 by Mrs. Ramsden, a Sermon is preached "upon Church Extension over the Colonies and Dependencies of the British Empire"), and of the Sunday before the Encænna, and for the assizes; the sermons on Christmas Day, Good Friday, and Ascension Day fall to the Dean of Christ Church; the sermon on Laly Day is preached by a preacher nominated by New College, and the sermons on the festivals of St. Mark and of St. John Baptist by Fellows of Magdalen.

Each person receives two months' notice of his turn; if he decline to preach, no one but a Select Preacher can be his substitute. No person may preach before the University without the approval of the Vice-Chancellor, nor unless he is at least a Master of Arts or a Bachelor of Civil Law in the University of Oxford, or of Cambridge, or of Dublin.

All University sermons are preached at St. Mary's Church, except those of the Dean of Christ Church, and of preachers of New College and Magdalen, mentioned above, which are, or may be, delivered in the Cathedral and in the Chapels of those Colleges respectively.

In the form of Bidding Prayer before the Latin sermons, before the morning sermon on the Sunday before the Encænna, and before the sermons at assizes, are introduced the names of the

SELECT PREACHERS.

There are ten persons, called Select Preachers, appointed to supply the place of those who decline to preach in their own turns. They are chosen out of the Doctors and Bachelors of Divinity and of Civil Law and the Masters of Arts of the University of Oxford, or of Cambridge, or of Dublin. Five are nominated yearly in November by the Vice-Chancellor, the Regius and the Margaret Professors of Divinity, and the two Proctors. Three members of this Board, of whom the Vice-Chancellor is to be one, must concur in each nomination; the names are then submitted to Convocation for approval. The office is tenable for two years, which run from Michaelmas term; and no one can be appointed again until after an interval of a year. The institution of Select Preachers was effected in 1804.

BAMPTON LECTURES.

In pursuance of the Will of the Rev. John Bampton, M.A., sometime of Trinity College, Canon of Salisbury, "Eight Divinity Lecture
 "Sermons" are preached on as many Sunday mornings in Term, "be"tween the commencement of the last month in Lent Term and the "end of the third week in Act Term, upon either of the following

"subjects: to confirm and establish the Christian Faith, and to confute
 "all heretics and schismatics—upon the divine authority of the Holy "Scriptures—upon the authority of the writings of the primitive Fathers,
 "as to the Faith and Practice of the primitive Church—upon the Di-
 "vinity of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ—upon the Divinity of "the Holy Ghost—upon the Articles of the Christian Faith, as com-
 "prehended in the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds."

The lecturer, who must be at least a Master of Arts of Oxford or Cambridge, is chosen yearly by the Heads of Colleges on the fourth Tuesday in Easter term. No one can be chosen a second time.

Thirty copies of the sermons are always to be printed within two months after they are preached, and one copy is to be given to the Chancellor of the University, one to the Head of every College, one to the Mayor of Oxford, and one is to be put into the Bodleian Library; the preacher is not entitled to the revenue of the endowment until they are printed.

The founder died in 1751, but his bequest did not take effect until 1779, in which year the first lecturer was chosen. The estate provided for the endowment now produces £120 to each lecturer.

UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIPS.

CRAVEN SCHOLARSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS.

John, Lord Craven of Ryton, by his will dated May 28, 1647, directed that out of the yearly rents and profits of an estate purchased by him in Sussex £100 per annum should be raised towards the maintenance of four poor scholars, two at Oxford, and two at Cambridge, and that the surplus revenue of the estate should "be employed and bestowed for and towards the redemption of English Christian captives, prisoners in Algiers or in any other places under the dominion of the Turk." He died a few months afterwards, his executor declined to act, and in December, 1648, his elder brother William, Lord Craven of Hampsted-Marshall, (afterwards created Earl of Craven,) having been appointed administrator, drew up certain regulations for the election of the scholars, which were approved by Convocation in October, 1649. Those regulations, agreeably to the founder's desire, allowed a preference in all cases to persons of his kindred or name, but otherwise the scholarships were to be awarded after an examination in classical learning, in which no graduate could be a candidate, nor any fellow or scholar of a College. Each scholarship was tenable for fourteen years from matriculation, or until the scholar attained to some "preferment of a double value." The electors were the Vice-Chancellor, the Regius Professors, and the Public Orator.

In 1664, William, Lord Craven, with the consent of both Universities, transferred the estate, subject to the trusts created by his brother's will, to a body of trustees, whose successors now hold it.

In March, 1819, it was determined by the Court of Chancery that the second part of the trust had come to an end from want of objects, and a decree was made increasing the number of scholars from four to ten, five for each University, and assigning to each scholar an annual stipend of £50 for seven years from his election. Subsequently, the rents of the estate having improved, the stipends were increased to £75. And by a decree of the Court of Chancery, and a statute of the University approved by the Queen in Council in 1858, the scholarships were made six in number, tenable for three years, with stipends of £80 a year each, two scholars being elected every year in Act term.

Under a scheme sanctioned by the Chancery Division of the High Court in 1886 there are now two fellowships and six scholarships.

The fellowships are tenable for two years, with an annual stipend of £200 each. Candidates must have passed the examinations required for the degree of B.A., and not have exceeded twenty-eight terms from matriculation. One fellow is elected annually in Michaelmas term by a committee of five persons appointed for the purpose by the Board of the Faculty of Arts (Literæ Humaniores). The committee may elect either without examination, or after such examination in Greek and Latin literature, history, and antiquities, or in some parts of these subjects, as they shall think fit. Every Fellow is required to spend at least eight months of each year of his tenure of the Fellowship in residence abroad for the purpose of study at some place or places approved by the committee.

The Scholarships are tenable for two years, with an annual stipend of £40 each. Candidates must be members of the University who have not exceeded sixteen terms from matriculation. Three Scholars are elected annually in Michaelmas term after an examination conducted by three persons nominated by the committee. The examination is the same as that for the Ireland Scholarship, and the person elected to that Scholarship, if he has not already gained a Craven Scholarship, is to be elected at the same time to the first Craven Scholarship. No person can be elected a second time to a Craven Scholarship.

RADCLIFFE'S TRAVELLING FELLOWSHIPS.

Dr. Radcliffe, the founder of the library which bears his name, bequeathed to University College an estate in Yorkshire charged with the payment of £600 per annum to "two persons, to be chosen out of the University of Oxford, when they are Masters of Arts and entered on the Physic line, for the maintenance of the said two persons for the space of ten years, and no longer, the half of which time at least they are to travel in parts beyond sea for their better improvement;" and he provided them with chambers in that College. The first two Fellows were elected in July, 1715, less than nine months after the death of the founder.

The fellowships are now three in number, each of the annual value of £200, and tenable for three years only. An election is held each year in Hilary term. Candidates must have passed all the examinations required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts and for the degree of Bachelor of Medicine, and must either have been placed in the first class in one at least of the public examinations of the University, or have attained some University prize or scholarship open to general competition. Each candidate must declare that he intends to devote himself during the period of his tenure of the fellowship to the study of medical science, and to travel abroad with a view to that study. The Regius Professor and the Examiners are, two months before the expiration of the second year of the tenure of the fellowship, to report to the electors on the work done by the Fellow, and if the electors deem the report unsatisfactory they may declare the fellowship forfeited. But in case no person willing to make such a declaration, or no person of sufficient merit for election, shall offer himself as a candidate, the fellowship then vacant is thrown open to all persons who have been placed in the first class in the School of Natural Science, whether authorized to practise or not, and the person then elected is not required to make such declaration.

Candidates are to be examined in medical science, and by such official persons in Oxford as the electors shall appoint. A candidate may offer a particular subject for examination.

The electors are the same as for the office of Radcliffe's Librarian, (see ante, page 98).

A Fellow forfeits his fellowship by spending after his election more than eighteen months within the United Kingdom.

VINERIAN SCHOLARSHIPS.

These have their endowment from the same founder as the Professorship of English Law. Their number, and the amount of the stipends assigned to them, have been changed from time to time by Convocation according to the state of the Vinerian fund, which now amounts by accumulations to about £20,000. For many years before 1854 there were two Fellows and five Scholars, each elected for ten years, and receiving stipends, the former of £50, the latter of £30, a year. By a statute made in 1853 it was enacted that in future there should be only one Fellow, elected at first for five years, but capable of being continued for five more, with an annual stipend of £100, and five Scholars, each elected for five years, with an annual stipend of £35.

A new statute, approved by the Queen in Council in 1867, suppressed the fellowship, and ordained that thenceforth there should be three Scholars, each elected for three years, with an annual stipend of £80. One Scholar, and one only, is to be elected every year in Lent term. Candidates must be members of the University who have completed two years and have not exceeded six years from their matriculation.

The election is vested in a board consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, all the Professors of Law, and the Public Examiners in the School of Jurisprudence, who are to appoint for each election three examiners, including at least one of themselves. The subjects of examination are the Civil Law, International Law, General Jurisprudence, and especially the Law of England both public and private.

Each Scholar is to satisfy the Vice-Chancellor every year that he belongs to one of the Inns of Court, or at least that he is bona fide studying English Law.

DEAN IRELAND'S SCHOLARSHIPS.

Four Scholarships for the promotion of classical learning and taste were founded in the year 1825 by John Ireland, D.D., of Oriel College, Dean of Westminster, the same munificent person who became afterwards by his will the founder of the Professorship of Exegesis. He gave for their endowment £4000 in £3 per cent. Consolidated Annuities.

One Scholar, and one only, is elected every year in Michaelmas term. Candidates must be undergraduate members of the University who have not exceeded the sixteenth term from their matriculation.

Each Scholarship is of the annual value of £30, and is tenable for four years, provided the Scholar keeps by residence two terms in each year.

The examination is the same as that for the Craven Scholarships, and the person elected to the Ireland Scholarship is, if not already a Craven Scholar, elected to the first Craven Scholarship.

ELDON LAW SCHOLARSHIP.

In the year 1830 the subscribers to a testimonial in honour of John, first Earl of Eldon, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain for twenty-five years (1801—1806 and 1807—1827), resolved out of the moneys subscribed to establish a Law Scholarship at Oxford, for the purpose of "recording Lord Eldon's connection with the Profession of the Law, "and with the University of which he was so distinguished an "ornament, and, at the same time, of conferring a real benefit, as "well as a distinction, upon meritorious individuals, who may have "to struggle with difficulties in the early part of their professional "career."

The management of the fund, including the election of the Scholar, is vested in fifteen trustees, being subscribers, or descendants of subscribers, and Protestants.

Candidates must be "Protestants of the Church of England, and "Members of the University of Oxford, who, having passed their Examination for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, have been rated in the First "Class in one branch at least at examination, or have gained one of the "Chancellor's Prizes, and who intend to follow the Profession of the "Law." In by-laws passed in 1830, it was ordered that all applications be addressed to the Secretary to the trustees, and that no application made by or on behalf of a candidate to any individual trustee should be entertained.

The Scholarship is tenable for three years, running from June 4, Lord Eldon's birthday, provided that the Scholar keeps his terms regularly at one of the Inns of Court. By a by-law passed in 1854, it was provided that if the Scholar be called to the Bar, or commence practice under the Bar, he should vacate his Scholarship.

The fund has now increased sufficiently by accumulations or otherwise, to allow of the establishment of a second Scholarship on similar conditions.

BODEN SCHOLARSHIPS.

Four Scholarships for proficiency in the Sanskrit language and literature were established by decrees of the Court of Chancery in 1830 and 1860, in order to carry into effect the purpose of the late Colonel Boden, stated in the article on the Boden Professorship of Sanskrit (see p. 71).

One Scholar is elected every year in Hilary term. Candidates must be members of some College or Hall, who have not exceeded the twenty-fifth year of their age.

Each Scholarship is tenable for four years with an annual stipend of £30, payable half-yearly, provided the Scholar retains his name on the books of some College or Hall, keeps by statutable residence three terms in each year, attends lectures of the Boden Professor, and makes sufficient proficiency in Sanskrit. Default in these conditions entails forfeiture of the Scholarship, or at least of some portion of the stipend.

The electors are the Boden Professor of Sanskrit, the Regius Professors of Divinity, Hebrew, and Greek, the Laudian and Lord Almoner's Professors of Arabic, and the Professor of Latin, or any three of them; if there are not three willing to act, a deputy or deputies shall be appointed by the electors conjointly.

MATHEMATICAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

Scholarships for the promotion of mathematical studies were founded in the year 1831, a fund for their endowment having been raised by contributions from many of the Colleges and from individual members of the University.

There were at first three scholarships, each tenable for three years, with an annual stipend of £50.

Certain changes in the regulations were made in 1844 and in 1864, and there were from the latter date four Scholarships, two senior, and two junior, each tenable for two years, with an annual stipend of £80.

The regulations have since 1885 been frequently revised, and are now as follows:—

There are four Scholarships, two senior and two junior, and one Exhibition. The value of a senior Scholarship is £80 for the first and £50 for the second year of its tenure. A junior Scholarship is of the annual value of £80 for two years, and the Exhibition is of the annual value of £20 for one year.

One Scholar, and one only, in each of the two classes is elected every year in the first week of full Hilary term. Candidates for the senior Scholarship must have passed all examinations required for the degree of B.A., and must not have exceeded the twenty-sixth term from their matriculation inclusively. Candidates for the junior Scholarship and for the Exhibition must be members of the University who have not exceeded seven terms from their matriculation inclusively. The standing of candidates who have matriculated at Cambridge or Dublin before matriculating at Oxford is computed from the date of such first matriculation, Easter term at Cambridge or Dublin being reckoned as equivalent to Easter and Trinity terms at Oxford.

Each Scholarship is tenable for two years, provided the Scholar has his name on the books of some College or Hall, and, in the case of a junior Scholar, that he continues to attend to mathematical studies. The senior Scholar of each year receives, for the first year only, over and above his proper stipend, the dividends of that moiety of Dr. Johnson's fund which was formerly assigned to his Mathematical Scholar, and is called the "Johnson University Scholar." These dividends amount to about £20 a year. The Exhibition is tenable under the same conditions as the junior Scholarship, and is awarded to the candidate for that Scholarship second in order of merit, if thought deserving by the examiners.

The examiners, three in number, who must be at least Masters of Arts or Bachelors of Medicine or Civil Law, are appointed by the trustees of the foundation, namely, the Vice-Chancellor, the Proctors, and the Professors of Geometry, Astronomy, Natural Philosophy, Experimental Philosophy, and Pure Mathematics.

KENNICOTT SCHOLARSHIPS.

Two Scholarships for the promotion of the study of Hebrew were founded by the will of Anne Kennicott, widow of the celebrated Hebraist, Benjamin Kennicott, D.D., Canon of Christ Church. The foundress died in 1830, and the property which she bequeathed for the endowment produced in 1831 the sum of £4800 in £3 per cent. Consolidated Annuities. Owing to a change of investment the fund now yields an income of about £200 a year.

Regulations were made by Convocation in 1831, according to which one Scholar was to be elected in a year, and each Scholarship was tenable for four years under certain conditions as to residence and exercises.

A statute which the University was specially empowered to make in 1863 reduced the Scholarships to one, tenable for one year only.

The regulations were revised in 1885, and there are now two Scholarships, a senior and a junior.

The senior Scholarship is awarded in Michaelmas term in every alternate year, and is tenable for two years, the emoluments consisting of a sum of £120, paid when the Scholarship is awarded. It is open to all members of the University who have passed the examinations for the degree of B.A., and who on the first day of the term in which it is awarded have not exceeded twelve years from matriculation. It is awarded to the candidate who on or before the first day of that term "shall have sent in that which in the judgment of the electors is the best dissertation on a subject connected with the Hebrew language or literature," selected by the Candidate himself, subject to the written approval of the Regius Professor of Hebrew. The electors are not bound to award the Scholarship for a dissertation which in their judgment is not of sufficient merit, and they have power to examine a candidate in the subject of his dissertation, and in questions arising immediately out of it. No residence is required in the case of a senior Scholar.

The junior Scholarship is of the annual value of £120, and is awarded every year in Michaelmas term after an examination in the Hebrew language and literature. Opportunity is given to candidates for showing their acquaintance with the cognate Semitic languages. Candidates must not on the first day of the term in which the Scholarship is awarded have exceeded thirty terms from matriculation. The Scholarship is tenable for one year, during which the Scholar is to reside for seven entire weeks in Michaelmas and Lent terms severally, and seven weeks in the interval between the commencement of Easter term and the twenty-first day of Act term, but such residence may be dispensed with by the board of management of the Pusey and Ellerton Scholarships under certain conditions as to the pursuit of study or the undertaking of work elsewhere.

The electors to both Scholarships are the Regius Professor of Hebrew and two other members of the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, or Dublin, not under the degree of Master of Arts, nominated by the above-mentioned board of management, and approved by Convocation.

JOHNSON'S SCHOLARSHIPS.

Two Scholarships, "one for the greatest attainment in Theology, and the other in Mathematics," were founded by John Johnson, D.D., sometime Fellow of Magdalen College, who bequeathed to the University the sum of £1200 for their endowment, directing that the money should be invested in £3 per cent. Consolidated Annuities, and that the dividends thereof should be applied "in the purchase of books on Theology and Classical Literature," and no part given in money. The bequest was accepted by Convocation in February 1833. Each Scholarship was tenable for two years. Candidates were required to have passed the examinations for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and not to have completed the fifth year from their matriculation. But, by statutes which the University was specially empowered to make in 1863, one moiety of the endowment is united with Mrs. Denyer's fund to maintain the Theological Scholarships described in the next article, and the proceeds of the other moiety given annually in money to the senior Mathematical Scholar of the year, called the "Johnson University Scholar."

DENYER AND JOHNSON SCHOLARSHIPS.

In the year 1863, by a statute which the University was specially empowered to make, three Scholarships for the promotion of the study of Theology were established in lieu of Dr. Johnson's Theological Scholarship described in the last article and of Mrs. Denyer's prizes for two theological essays described at page 170, and the joint revenue of those two foundations, amounting now to about £120, was appointed for their endowment. By a statute passed in 1878, amending the before-mentioned statute, the Scholarships were reduced to two, of the yearly value of £50 each.

Any Bachelor of Arts, who has not exceeded twenty-seven terms from his matriculation, may present himself for the examination for these Scholarships, which is held every year in Hilary term. The standing of candidates who have matriculated at Cambridge or Dublin before matriculating at Oxford is computed from the date of matriculation at Cambridge or Dublin as the case may be, Easter term in either of those Universities being reckoned as equivalent to Easter and Trinity terms at Oxford. The examiners, three in number, are nominated by the electors of the examiners in the Honour School of Theology, and must be members of Convocation in Priest's Orders.

The subjects of the examination are fixed each year by the Board of the Faculty of Theology.

The Scholarships are tenable for one year only.

HERTFORD SCHOLARSHIP.

On the dissolution of the old society of Hertford College, consequent upon the death of its last Principal in 1805, part of its property escheated to the Crown; and in 1818, by letters patent under the Great Seal, a portion of the escheat was granted by the Crown to the University upon trust to pay the income, after the death of the Rev. Richard Hewitt, M.A., the only remaining Fellow of the College, to an undergraduate chosen by free competition and public examination according to such statutes as should be made by Convocation. A Scholarship for the promotion of the study of Latin was accordingly established by statute in 1834.

The Scholarship is tenable for one year only, and is of the value of nearly £40. The election takes place in Trinity term. Candidates must not have completed two years from their matriculation.

The examiners, three in number, being Masters of Arts or Bachelors of Civil Law of two years' standing, are nominated by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors, subject to the approval of Convocation.

TAYLORIAN SCHOLARSHIPS.

In furtherance of the object of Sir Robert Taylor, as stated in the article on the Taylor Institution, four Scholarships for proficiency in modern languages were established in the year 1857. They were tenable for two years. Two Scholars were elected every year, one for proficiency in German and in some other language taught in the Institution, the other for proficiency in French and in some other language taught there. Each received £25 a year from the Taylor fund. Candidates were not to have exceeded the age of twenty-four years at the time of the election. Under a new statute made in 1869, one Scholarship worth £50 and one Exhibition worth £25, each tenable for one year, were awarded annually for proficiency in one or more <sup>1</sup> Owing to a change in the time of holding the examination, two elections were made in 1885, one in Hilary term and the other in Michaelmas term.

The regulations were again revised in 1890, and there are now two Scholarships, of the value of £25 each, tenable for one year. It is provided that a Scholarship be offered in each of the four languages, French, German, Italian, and Spanish, once in every two years.

BURDETT-COUTTS SCHOLARSHIPS.

In the year 1860, Miss Angela Burdett-Coutts, afterwards Baroness Burdett-Coutts, daughter of the late Sir Francis Burdett, Baronet, having presented to the University the Pengelly collection of Devonshire fossils, proceeded to found two Scholarships for the promotion of "the study of Geology and of Natural Science as bearing on Geology," and gave £5000 in £3 per cent. Consolidated Annuities for their endowment. Owing to change of investment the annual income of the fund now exceeds £220.

Each Scholarship is tenable for two years. One Scholar, and one only, is elected every year in Michaelmas term. Candidates must have passed all necessary examinations for the degree of B.A., and not have exceeded the twenty-seventh term from their matriculation.

The examiners are the Professor of Geology, and two other persons nominated, subject to the approval of Convocation, by the board of management of the foundation, consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the President of Magdalen College, and the Regius Professor of Medicine.

Every Scholar is required during the first year of his tenure of the Scholarship to reside in the University, under such conditions as the board of management may determine, and during the second to pursue such course of study, in the University or elsewhere, as the Professor of Geology may approve.

. DAVIS CHINESE SCHOLARSHIP.

Sir John Francis Davis, Bart., K.C.B., F.R.S., D.C.L. (sometime H.M. Plenipotentiary in China), having in the year 1876 transferred to the University the sum of £1666 13s. 4d. Consols for the purpose of endowing a scholarship for the encouragement of the study of Chinese in such manner and subject to such regulations as the University should from time to time determine, the University, by a statute passed in January 1877, enacted that there should be a scholarship, called the Davis Scholarship, for proficiency in the Chinese language and literature, with an annual stipend of £50, payable terminally, open to all members of the University who on the day of election should not have exceeded the twenty-eighth term from their matriculation.

The Scholar is elected by the Vice-Chancellor, the President of Corpus Christi College (or, if the President be Vice-Chancellor, the senior Pro-Vice-Chancellor), and the Professor of Chinese, after an examination held by such persons as they may appoint for that purpose, the Professor himself being always one of the examiners.

The Scholarship is tenable for two calendar years from the day of election, provided the Scholar keep a statutable residence of not less than seven weeks in each term, Easter and Trinity terms being reckoned as one, and pursue his studies in Chinese under the advice and supervision of the Professor.

If at the time of holding an election the electors do not think any of the candidates worthy of the Scholarship, they have power to postpone the election for any period not exceeding two years, and, in such an event, to grant the annual stipend of £50, or any less sum, under the name of an Exhibition, to any person who shall be certified to them as desirous of pursuing the study of Chinese. The Exhibition is tenable during the period for which the election to the Scholarship shall have been postponed, and under the same conditions of residence and study as are applicable to the Scholarship.

Geographical Scholarship.

This Scholarship was established in 1899 as part of a scheme entered into between the University and the Royal Geographical Society for promoting the study of geography within the University.

1900 Edward Clarke Spicer, New College.

UNIVERSITY PRIZES.

THE subjects for all prize compositions are published in the University, generally about Midsummer in each year, with a statement of the several days by which the respective compositions are to be sent in to the Registrar. Each writer is required to send in his composition under a sealed cover, and to conceal his name, distinguishing his composition by a motto, and sending at the same time his name under another sealed cover with the same motto written on the outside.

Such portions of the successful compositions for the Chancellor's, the Newdigate, the Stanhope, and the two Gaisford Prizes, as the Public Orator and the Professor of Poetry appoint, are read each year in the Theatre at the Commemoration of Founders and Benefactors.

All unsuccessful compositions are left with the Registrar, and may be received from him at his office within the space of one year.

THE CHANCELLOR'S PRIZES.

LATIN VERSE. ENGLISH ESSAY. LATIN ESSAY.

The Earl of Litchfield, who was Chancellor of the University during 1762-1772, began the practice, since followed by his successors, of giving two annual prizes of £20 each for composition in Latin verse and in English prose; and Lord Grenville, after his election to the same office in 1809, added a third prize of the same value for composition in Latin prose, which has likewise been continued by the munificence of succeeding Chancellors.

The prize for Latin verse is confined to those members of the University who have not exceeded four years from their matriculation: the other two prizes to those who have exceeded four years but have not completed seven.

The judges by whom all these Prizes were awarded were originally the Vice-Chancellor, the two Proctors, the Public Orator, and the Professor of Poetry. The judges of Latin Verse and Latin Essays are now the Public Orator, the Professor of Latin, and three members of Convocation appointed by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors. The judges of English essays are the Public Orator, the Professor of Poetry, and the three members of Convocation appointed as above.

ENGLISH VERSE.

SIR ROGER NEWDIGATE'S PRIZE.

Prizes for compositions in English verse were in past times frequently given by benefactors whose names were not made known at the time and are not known now. But no benefaction of a permanent character was received until 1806, when Sir Roger Newdigate, Baronet, of Arbury in Warwickshire, D.C.L. of University College, sometime Burgess for the University, gave a prize for "a copy of English Verse of fifty lines and no more in recommendation of the study of the "ancient Greek and Roman remains of Architecture, Sculpture, and "Painting." He died in the following year at a very advanced age, and by his will bequeathed the sum of £1000, directing that £21 out of the income should be paid annually as a prize for a similar poem, and that the surplus should help to form a fund for the improvement of the Master's lodgings at University College. After the very inconvenient restrictions imposed by the founder had been endured for seventeen years, 1810-1826, they were removed with the consent of his heir and representative; and from that time there has been no precise limitation either of the length of the poems or of the range of the subjects.

The prize, like the Chancellor's prize for Latin verse, is confined to those members of the University who have not exceeded four years from their matriculation.

The judges are the Public Orator, the Professor of Poetry, and the three members of Convocation appointed by the vice-Chancellor and Proctors to assist in awarding the Chancellor's prizes.

In the year 1825 Edward Ellerton, D.D., Fellow of Magdalen College, in order to encourage theological learning, founded an annual prize of £21, (which he secured upon an estate at Horspath in Oxfordshire,) for an English essay "on some doctrine or duty of the Christian Religion," or "on some of the points on which we differ from the Romish Church," or "on any other subject of Theology which shall be deemed meet and useful."

The prize is open to all members of the University who have passed the examinations for the degree of B.A., and who have commenced the sixteenth term from their matriculation for the space of eight weeks previous to the day appointed for sending in the essays, and have not exceeded the twenty-eighth term from their matriculation on the day on which the subject of the essay is proposed. The subject is to be given out in Easter term before the Commemoration, and the essays are to be sent in on or before the first day of March following.

The successful essay is read in the Divinity School on some day appointed by the Vice-Chancellor in the week before the Commemoration.

The judges, who appoint the subject and award the prize, are the President of Magdalen and the Regius and Margaret Professors of Divinity. In case the President is a layman the Master of University acts in his stead.

DENYER THEOLOGICAL ESSAYS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dennis Denyer, of Chelsea, widow, who died in 1824, bequeathed to the University the sum of £2000 in £3 per cent. Consolidated Annuities in order to found two annual prizes of £30 each for sermons to be preached upon certain subjects, which were stated in her will and arranged for a cycle of five years. But, as some of the conditions were inconsistent with the statutes, the University declined to accept the legacy; which then escheated to the Crown. Upon this a memorial was presented on the part of the University, and on Feb. 5, 1835, King William IV, by Royal Warrant under his Sign Manual, granted the bequeathed stock, together with accumulations of interest, to the University, directing that the dividends should be annually paid in equal moieties as prizes for two Theological Essays on subjects named in Mrs. Denyer's will.

The prizes were confined to Members of the University, in Deacon's Orders at least, who on the day appointed for sending in the Essays had entered on the eighth and not exceeded the tenth year from their matriculation. The successful essays were read in the Divinity School on some day in full term appointed by the Vice-Chancellor. But, by a statute which the University was specially empowered to make in 1863, the essays were discontinued, and the endowment, then amounting to £3000 stock, was assigned for the maintenance of the Denyer and Johnson Scholarships described at page 142.

The judges were the Vice-Chancellor, the two Proctors, and the Regius and Margaret Professors of Divinity.

other moiety had been expended in the erection of a new library at Rugby School,) in order to found an annual prize of £42, under the name of "The Arnold Prize," for the encouragement of the study of history, ancient and modern. The prize is awarded every year in Hilary term.

The prize is open to all graduates of the University who, on the day appointed for sending in the compositions, have not exceeded twelve years from their matriculation.

JOHNSON MEMORIAL PRIZE ESSAY.

In 1862 the University accepted the sum of £310, which had been raised by voluntary subscription as a foundation for a prize in memory of Manuel John Johnson, M.A., of Magdalen Hall, Radcliffe Observer, and in encouragement of the study of astronomy and meteorology. The endowment has been augmented by accumulations, and now produces about £16 a-year.

The Prize is offered once in every four years for an essay on some astronomical or meteorological subject, which is either fixed by the trustees, or chosen by a candidate, as the trustees may determine; in the former alternative, not less than two years' notice is given of the determination of the trustees and of the subject proposed. It is open to all members of the University, and consists of a gold medal of the value of ten guineas, together with the surplus income of the endowment. The compositions are to be sent in by the 31st day of March in the year appointed.

The judges (not fewer than three in number, and not below the degree of B.M., B.C.L., or M.A.) are appointed by the trustees of the foundation, namely, the Vice-Chancellor, the Savilian Professors of Geometry and Astronomy, the Sedleian Professor of Natural Philosophy, the Professor of Experimental Philosophy, and the Radcliffe Observer.

MARQUIS OF LOTHIAN'S HISTORICAL PRIZE ESSAY.

In 1870 the University accepted from William Schomberg Robert, eighth Marquis of Lothian, an annuity or perpetual yearly rent-charge, upon trust to apply the same in the foundation of an annual prize of £40 for the best essay on any point of foreign history, whether secular or ecclesiastical, in the period between the dethronement of Romulus Augustulus and the death of Frederick the Great.

The prize is open to all members of the University who, at the time of sending in their composition, shall not have exceeded the twenty-seventh term from matriculation.

The judges are the Vice-Chancellor, the Dean of Christ Church, and the Regius Professor of Modern History, each of whom, however, has power to appoint a substitute.

In the event of the Dean of Christ Church being Vice-Chancellor, a third judge is nominated by him and the Regius Professor of Modern History.

The subject for each year is decided by the judges, who also have power to give the prize either in money or in books, at their discretion.

GREEN MORAL PHILOSOPHY PRIZE.

Thomas Hill Green, M.A., sometime Fellow of Balliol College, and White's Professor of Moral Philosophy, by his will (proved July 24, 1882) bequeathed to the University the sum of one thousand pounds, and directed that the accumulated income should be applied every third year as a prize for a dissertation on some subject relating to moral philosophy, the subject being selected, and the prize awarded, by White's Professor and the Waynflete Professor of Moral and Metaphysical Philosophy, and one other person of the degree of Master of Arts, or any superior degree, to be selected for that purpose by the Master and Fellows of Balliol College. He also directed that every candidate for the prize should have been admitted to or qualified for the degree of Master of Arts.

The bequest is not to take effect during the lifetime of the testator's widow, but that lady having proposed to give an annual sum of £30 for a prize to be awarded on the terms prescribed by her husband's will, the University by decree of Convocation on March 11, 1884, accepted her generous offer.

CLASS LISTS.

AT the end of the eighteenth century the exercises required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts had become merely formal, and offered no opportunity to candidates of parts and learning of obtaining distinction at their examination. The commencement of the present system is to be found in a statute of the year 1800, which gave an option to each candidate to offer himself for the ordinary examination held in every term, or for a more strict examination in Easter term, at which honours were awarded according to merit. At this examination, those who most eminently distinguished themselves were to be classed as candidates "qui se Examinatoribus Publicis MAXIME commendaverunt." Of these there could be no more than twelve; and, if more than that number appeared to the examiners worthy of distinction, they were to be described as candidates "qui se Examinatoribus Publicis EGREGIE commendaverunt." The names in each division were arranged in order of merit, and were published. The candidates were examined in mathematics as well as in classics, and the honours were awarded for attainments in both conjointly.

In 1807 two stated times for the examination were appointed, one in Michaelmas, the other in Easter term; and it was enacted, that all candidates, whether for honours or not, should be examined in one course in one or other of those terms; that all who passed the examination in either term should be arranged in three classes, in the first two of which should be placed, alphabetically in each, the names of those who passed with more or less distinction, the third class comprising all the rest; that this class list should be twofold, having one side for Literæ Humaniores or classics, the other for Disciplina Mathematica et Physica or mathematics; and that the names in the first two classes should be published. It must be remarked that, although the number of names in the third class is given in the following pages, it was not printed in the actual class lists issued at the time.

In 1809 the second class was divided into two by a line, the names above and below that line being placed severally in alphabetical order; so that, though nominally but two, there were really three classes of honorary distinction.

In 1825 the name of "third class" was given to that which had been the lower half of the second class, that which had been the third was entitled the "fourth class," the number of names in this last being printed at the foot of the class list.

In 1830<sup>1</sup> the number of classes was increased to five, that which had been the fourth being made the fifth, and the first four being designed for honorary distinction. It was also provided that those who were not candidates for honours in the classical school should be examined separately from those who were, the former being taken first, and that mathematical candidates should be examined first of all in either series. At the same time permission was given to the examiners to place in the fourth class in classics any candidate whom they might think worthy of it, even though he had not offered himself as a candidate for honours; and, as a choice between Logic and four books of Euclid was now allowed to those who were not candidates for honours, whereas Logic was before required from every one, that permission was understood as applying to the fourth class in Mathematics likewise. This enactment took effect in 1831, and came to an end in 1865, when the honours examination and the pass examination began to be conducted by separate bodies of examiners.

In 1850 the Public Examination was divided into two parts, (1) the First Public Examination, to be passed midway in the academical course, to which, as being conducted by examiners called Moderators, the name of Moderations has become attached, (2) the Second Final Examination, succeeding to the place of the single public examination hitherto existing, and now called the Second Public Examination. This change took effect as to the first public examination in 1852, and as to the second public examination in 1853.

In connexion with this change two new final honour schools were at the same time established, those of Natural Science and of Law and Modern History. A fifth school, that of Theology, was added in 1870, and a sixth in 1872 by the division of the school of Law and Modern History into two schools, one of Jurisprudence and the other of Modern History. A school of Oriental Studies was added in 1886, and of English Language and Literature in 1894. There are four classes for each school, corresponding in all respects to the first four classes of the statute of 1830. These schools are now designated the eight Honour Schools of the Second Public Examination. Since the year 1882 the examination in each of the final Honour Schools has been held once a year only, in Trinity term. The examination of candidates who do not seek honours is conducted on an independent footing and by other examiners.

Since 1883 the examiners in the Final Honour Schools have had power, of which they on occasion avail themselves, to place at the foot of the class-lists, distinguished by the word agrotal (or agrotant), <sup>1</sup> In 1826 it was provided that candidates for honours in mathematics should be the first examined in the classical school, but no change was made in the arrangement of the class list.

the names of candidates who have been prevented by illness from showing that they are entitled to a place in the class-list, or from undergoing the complete examination. Such candidates are deemed to have obtained honours in their respective schools.

In the First Public Examination Honours are assigned in two Schools only, that of Classics, and that of Mathematics, and at first there were but two divisions in each, as has been observed above in the case of the earlier class-lists at the beginning of the nineteenth century a third class was added in Michaelmas, term 1854, and a fourth class will be introduced in 1902.

Since 1885 the Examination for Honours in Classics, and since 1896 that for Honours in Mathematics, have been held only once a year.

The regulations for the examination of Candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Civil Law were revised in the year 1871. The examination is held once a year, in Trinity term, and the names of those Candidates (not having exceeded the twenty-fifth term from matriculation) who satisfy the Examiners are arranged alphabetically in three classes according to merit. The first examination under the new system was held in 1873.

In the following Class-lists and Honour-lists the footnotes are only designed to indicate changes of college, name, or title which have occurred after the publication of the list in which the name appears. The letter f or s following a name signifies that the bearer was a fellow of his college or a student of Ch. Ch. as the case may be.

COLLEGES.

THE Colleges are distinct corporate bodies, founded at various times for the purposes of study and education within the University, consisting exclusively of matriculated members of the University, but governed, as to their own concerns, by their respective statutes; each having a mansion for the residence of members of the foundation and for the reception of other academical students; and possessing endowments, in many cases of considerable amount, derived from the munificence of Founders and Benefactors. In common use the word College signifies the mansion of each Society as well as the Society itself.

In Oxford there are now existing twenty-one Colleges. The history of their relation to the University is too large a subject to be adequately treated here. It may be sufficient to say, that for more than three hundred years previous to 1855 no person could be a member of the University whose name was not upon the books of some College, or of one of the Academical Halls described further on. In that year, in obedience to the directions of the Oxford University Act, 1854, a statute was passed permitting Members of Convocation under certain conditions, to receive students into their residence under the name of Private Halls. Such Halls have from time to time been set up under this statute. Another statute, passed in 1868, made provision for the admission as students and members of the University of persons not belonging to any College or Hall. These Students are, by a statute of later date, designated "Non-Collegiate."

In every College except two the corporate body consists of a Head, Fellows, and Scholars, with the addition in certain societies of officers such as Chaplains, Organists, Choristers, and the like. All these are members of the foundation, and receive stipends from the corporate revenues. The two exceptions are All Souls and Christ Church. At All Souls there are no Scholars: at Christ Church, which is a Cathedral as well as a College, there is, besides the Dean, a capitular body of Canons, while those who answer in most respects to Fellows are called Students. At Merton the Scholars are called Postmasters, at Magdalen Demies.

Keble College is a society or house founded for academical study and education, and admitted to the privileges enjoyed by the Colleges and Public Halls within the University by decree of Convocation, April 18, 1871.

The Heads of Colleges are variously designated. The title is, at University, Balliol, and Pembroke Colleges, "Master"; at Merton,

New College, All Souls, Wadham, and Keble, "Warden"; at Exeter and Lincoln, "Rector"; at Oriel, Queen's, and Worcester, "Prorector"; at Magdalen, Corpus Christi, Trinity, and St. John's, "President"; at Brasenose, Jesus, and Hertford, "Principal"; and at Christ Church, "Dean."

All the Colleges, except Lincoln, Keble, and Hertford, are now governed by Statutes made for each by the Commissioners appointed under the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Act, 1877.

In Christ Church the Dean, Canons, and Students are the Governing Body; in Keble the Warden and Council; in every other College the Head and Fellows. Discipline over the junior members of each Society is exercised by the Head, his Vicegerent, and certain officers of the College, who are commonly appointed from among the Fellows.

In almost every College the Head is elected by the Fellows. But the Dean of Christ Church is appointed by the Crown, the Warden of Keble by the Council of that College, and the Principal of Hertford by the Chancellor of the University. Headships are tenable for life, but subject to the provisions contained in the new statutes for the retirement on a pension of a Head who has become permanently incapable of performing the duties of his office, or for his deprivation for grave reasons.

The Fellowships created under the statutes of 1882 may be divided into three classes, namely, Professor Fellowships, Official Fellowships, and Ordinary Fellowships, but the representation of each class is not provided for in all Colleges alike. Professor Fellowships are annexed to certain University Professorships, and constitute part of their emoluments; Official Fellowships are tenable by the holders of certain College offices, such as Tutors, Chaplains, and Bursars, so long as they continue to hold those offices; Ordinary Fellowships, which are of the value of £200 a year, and are tenable for seven years only, may be awarded after examination, or on condition of the holder undertaking definite literary or scientific work in the University or elsewhere, or may be conferred on University Professors or Readers. The Colleges are also empowered to elect persons of distinction to Honorary Fellowships, but the holders of such Fellowships have no share in the government of the College, and derive no emolument from its revenues.

Scholarships are usually of the value, inclusive of all allowances, of £80 a year. They are awarded by the Head and Fellows after examination, and are tenable in the first instance for two years only; their tenure however may be prolonged, in case the industry and good conduct of the Scholar have at the end of that period been duly certified, for another two years, at the expiration of which a further extension for one year is in special cases allowed. As a general rule no candidate is eligible for an Open Scholarship whose age on the day of election exceeds nineteen years.

In the following pages the several Colleges are placed in the reputed order of their foundation.

I. UNIVERSITY COLLEGE.

THE College of the Great Hall of the University, commonly called University College, was, according to popular tradition, founded and endowed by King Alfred the Great, in or about the year 872. No record however of this tradition is found earlier than the close of the fourteenth or the beginning of the fifteenth century. The first historical endowment of the College dates from the year 1249. In that year William of Durham, said to have been Rector of Wearmouth and Archdeacon of Durham, bequeathed a sum of money to provide a permanent endowment for the maintenance of a certain number of "Masters." The first purchase with this bequest was made in 1253, and the first statutes are dated 1280.

The endowment of William of Durham was added to at various dates by other benefactors; among others by King Henry IV, at the instance of Walter Skirlow or Skirlaw, Bishop of Durham, in 1403; by Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland, in 1455; by Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, in 1587; by John Freeston, in 1592; by Robert Gunsley, in 1610; by Sir Simon Bennet, in 1631; by Dr. John Radcliffe, in 1714; and by Dr. John Browne, in 1764.

The foundation consists (according to the new statutes made in 1881) of a Master, thirteen Fellows (including one Civil Law Fellow), sixteen Scholars, and (ultimately) seventeen Exhibitioners.

The Fellowships are tenable for seven years, but this term may (except in the case of the Civil Law Fellowship) be extended under certain conditions.

The Civil Law Fellowship was founded in 1837 by Mary Anne, Viscountess Sidmouth, in honour of her father, Lord Stowell, sometime Fellow of this Society. It is open to members of the University of Oxford who have passed all the examinations required for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and have not exceeded thirty terms from their Matriculation.

The Scholarships are of the value of £80 per annum, and are open to all who have not exceeded the age of nineteen on the day of election. They are tenable in the first instance for two years, but this term is extended to four years in case of good conduct and industry, and may for special reasons be extended to five years.

The two Lodge Exhibitions (annual value about £82) and the Heron Exhibition (annual value not exceeding £70) are open to all persons in need of support at the University who are not more than twenty-one years old nor of more than six terms' standing.

The three Freeston Exhibitions (annual value £50) are confined in the first instance to the Grammar Schools of Normanton, Wakefield, Pontefract, and Swillington, and the four Gunsley Exhibitions (annual value not less than £45) to the Grammar Schools of Rochester and Maidstone.

The two Linton Exhibitions (annual value not less than £40) are awarded for special proficiency in Modern History, and are open to all persons who are not more than twenty-one years of age nor of more than eight terms' standing.

All the above Exhibitions are held on the same tenure as the Scholarships.

The new statutes also provide that there shall be created a General Exhibition Fund for the purpose of assisting such members of the College as the Masters and Fellows shall judge to be in need and deserving of assistance at the University.

II. BALLIOL COLLEGE.

FOUNDED by John Balliol, of Barnard Castle in the county of Durham, and Dervorguilla his wife (parents of John Balliol, King of Scotland). The foundation had been commenced during the lifetime of John Balliol, who died in 1269. The House was permanently endowed by his widow, who in the year 1282 gave to it the earliest statutes. Its revenues were augmented by the munificence of succeeding Benefactors, particularly of Sir William Felton and Sir Philip Somervyle.

There are now fourteen Fellowships and fifteen Scholarships on the old foundation at this College; the latter of about £80 a year, open to candidates under nineteen years of age. There are five Scholarships of £60 a year, for persons educated at Blundell's School, Tiverton, on the foundation of Mr. Peter Blundell, one of which is to be filled up annually by examination at the School. There are four Mathematical Scholarships, tenable for four years, of the value of £80 a year. There are also eight Scholarships, of £80 a year, tenable for four years, "for the encouragement of the study of Law and History, and of the study of Natural Science, in order to qualify Students for the professions of Law and Medicine respectively," founded by Hannah, daughter of the late Francis Brakenbury, as a grateful memorial of her deceased brothers, James B. Brakenbury and Ralph Brakenbury, and in recognition of an ancient connexion between the families of Balliol and Brakenbury.

Three Exhibitions (or more, according to circumstances) of £70 a year are annually offered by the College for open competition among all Candidates who have not completed the eighth term from their matriculation. There are also a certain number of Williams Exhibitions of £40 a year.

The Warner Exhibition (founded in 1667 by John Warner, Bishop of Rochester), of about £90 a year, is confined to natives, or those whose fathers were natives, of Scotland.

All these Scholarships and Exhibitions, under the regulations of the Oxford University Commission of 1882, are tenable for two years; there is a power of renewal for two years longer if the College are satisfied with the Scholar or Exhibitioner; and a further power of extension to five years for special reasons. They can only be held during residence.

The Snell Exhibitions (four in number at present) were added in 1677 by John Snell, Esquire. The nomination to them is vested in the Principal and Professors of Glasgow University, and the election in the Master and Fellows of this College. One or two of these are annually filled up by an examination held at Glasgow. They are tenable during residence for four years.

Two Exhibitions of £100 a year, tenable for four years, were founded under the will of Richard Jenkyns, D.D., Master of the College 1819-54; to be filled up by competition among those members of the College who have not exceeded sixteen terms of academical standing.

Henry Skynner, Esq., who died in 1884, bequeathed certain ground-rents in London for the foundation of Fellowships and Scholarships having for their object the study of Mathematics and Astronomy. A Scholarship on this Foundation, of the value of £90 a year, tenable for five years, has been established out of this endowment.

On the death, in 1887, of the last Principal of New Inn Hall, that institution, which had existed as an academical hall from 1438, became, by virtue of a statute made by the University of Oxford Commissioners in 1881, united with Balliol College.

III. MERTON COLLEGE.

THIS College, originally called the House of Scholars of Merton, was founded in the year 1264, at Malden in Surrey, by Walter de Merton, sometime Chancellor of England, and afterwards Bishop of Rochester. The first body of statutes was given by the Founder in 1264, the third and last in 1274, in which year the House of the Scholars was removed to Oxford.

Subsequent benefactors were—in 1380, John Wyllyott, D.D., Chancellor of Exeter, who vested his Estates in the College for the maintenance of Portionists, since called Post-Masters; in 1604, John Chamber, Fellow of Eton, Canon of Windsor, who left moneys for the maintenance of two Post-Masters and one Fellow, to be elected from Foundationers of Eton; in 1753, Henry Jackson, sometime M.A. of this College, and afterwards Minor Canon of St. Paul's, who founded certain Exhibitions.

Under the new statutes made by the University of Oxford Commissioners in 1881, the number of Fellowships with emolument is not to be less than nineteen and may be raised to twenty-six. Subject to certain reservations, these Fellowships are tenable for seven years. Most of them are awarded upon the results of an examination, but the College is empowered, within certain limits, to elect without examination any Professor or Public Reader in the University; any person of eminence in Literature, Science, or Art, who shall undertake literary, scientific, or educational work; and any person who has been appointed to act as Bursar, Tutor, or Lecturer of the College. The Linacre Professor of Comparative Anatomy and the Merton Professor of English are ex officio Fellows of the College.

The number of Postmasterships, or Scholarships, is eighteen, but may be increased. Provision is made for their being assigned, in a definite rotation, to Classics, Mathematics, and Natural Science respectively. Their annual value is £80, inclusive of rooms and all allowances. They are tenable for two years from the day of election.

but may be renewed for a further period of two years, if the Warden and Fellows, after receiving a report from the Tutors, shall declare themselves satisfied with the Postmaster's industry and good conduct. Under special circumstances, they may be again extended for one year longer. No person is eligible to a Postmastership who has exceeded the age of nineteen on the day of election.

Two of these Postmasterships, being Chambers Postmasterships, are reserved to Candidates educated at Eton College, if any shall present themselves of sufficient merit for election.

There is also an Exhibition of £80 a year for students of Modern History, and other Exhibitions of £60 a year, which are awarded after the same examinations as the Postmasterships. Candidates are eligible for Exhibitions without restriction of age, but they are held under the same conditions as Postmasterships.

There is also an Exhibition Fund, which is formed for the purpose of assisting poor students and of promoting study among the Undergraduate members of the College.

On the resignation of the last Principal of St. Alban Hall in 1882, that institution (said to date from the early part of the fifteenth century) became, by virtue of a statute made by the University of Oxford Commissioners in 1881, united with Merton College, in which its property, site, and buildings are now vested.

IV. EXETER COLLEGE.

THIS College was founded by Walter de Stapeldon, Bishop of Exeter, in 1314; and was incorporated by charter of Queen Elizabeth in 1565, under the name of Exeter College in the University of Oxford; and enlarged by a second endowment given in that year by Sir William Petre, Knight.

There are at present twelve Fellowships, including the Chaplain Fellowship.

There are twenty-one or more Foundation Scholarships: of these, eight (called Stapeldon Scholarships) are limited to persons born or educated in the old Diocese of Exeter, and either one or two (called King Charles the First's Scholarships) to persons born in any of the Channel Islands, or educated at Victoria College, Jersey, or Elizabeth College, Guernsey. The rest of the Scholarships are open. Four are usually awarded for proficiency in Mathematics, and four for proficiency in Natural Science. The College exercises the power of adding to the number of open Scholarships.

The Stapeldon Scholarships are of the value of not less than £60 a year; the remainder of £80.

If no duly qualified candidates present themselves for the limited Scholarships, these also may for the time be thrown open.

The election to the Open Scholarships usually takes place in Hilary term. Candidates for all the above-mentioned Scholarships must be under nineteen years of age.

There is also a Scholarship founded by Mr. George Redsell Carter of the value of £80 a year, for which persons born in the County of Kent who are already members of the College have a preference ceteris paribus over other candidates. Subject to this reservation the Carter Scholarship is open.

Two Scholarships, each of the value of £80 a year, have been founded by Miss Marianne Frances Hasker, "for the advancement of sound learning and for the encouragement of the study of Theology by persons intending to take Holy Orders." These Scholarships are open to all persons born British subjects who need assistance at the University.

There are various Exhibitions in the gift of the College. Of these, two have the same limitation as King Charles the First's Scholarships, two (How) are limited to sons of clergymen with preference for the Founder's kin, or, in default of these, for sons of clergymen resident in the County of Somerset or of Devon; one (Gifford) is limited in the first instance to Candidates educated at Ashburton School; two (Symes and Michell) are restricted to students of Divinity who are of not less than two terms' standing in the University; one (Richards) to persons already members of the College; one (Loscombe Richards) open without restriction. The other Exhibitions are open, and are awarded for proficiency in Classics and in the various subjects of the Final Honour Schools. The College has power to add to the number of Open Exhibitions.

There is no limitation of age for the Carter or Hasker Scholarships or for the Exhibitions. Candidates for any Exhibition must be in need of assistance at the University.

There are also two prizes awarded annually after competition among members of the College. One of these, the Richard's prize, was founded by Joseph Loscombe Richards, D.D., Rector 1838-1854, for a theological essay. The subject is the same as that set for the Ellerton (University) prize. The other, the Skeat prize, was founded by the Rev. Walter William Skeat, M.A., Hon. D.C.L., Elrington and Bosworth Professor of Anglo-Saxon, Cambridge, for knowledge of a portion of English literature prescribed annually by the College.

V. ORIEL COLLEGE.

THIS College was founded by Edward II. in 1326, on the suggestion of Adam de Brome, his almoner, for a Provost and ten Fellows. The number of Fellowships was subsequently increased to eighteen by various benefactions. Four were founded by John Frank, Master of the Rolls, who died A.D. 1441; one by John Carpenter, Bishop of Worcester, about the year 1476; one by William Smyth, Bishop of Lincoln, 1507; and two by Richard Dudley, Chancellor of the Church of Salisbury, 1529. Queen Anne annexed to the Provostship a Canonry of Rochester, which was afterwards severed from it under statutes made by the University Commissioners of 1877, and is now annexed to the Oriel Professorship of the Interpretation of Holy Scripture.

Several Exhibitions and Scholarships were founded in this College by different benefactors: viz. six, of inconsiderable value, by Richard Dudley, above mentioned; three by Dr. Robinson, Bishop of London, 1718; four under the will of Henry, Duke of Beaufort, 1744; two under that of Mrs. Ludwell, 1761; one (the Rutland Exhibition), by the Rev. Richard Twopeny, 1838; and two under the will of Dr. Ireland, Dean of Westminster, 1842.

By statutes made by the Commissioners under the Universities Act 1877 the number of Fellows (exclusive of Professor Fellows) was reduced to twelve. The Regius Professor of Modern History and the Oriel Professor of the Interpretation of Holy Scripture are Professor Fellows.

Under the same statutes there are at least ten Scholarships and two Exhibitions, called the Exhibitions of Adam de Brome, tenable for four years (which may be extended for special reasons to five years); the value of each of these Scholarships and Exhibitions (during residence) being £80 per annum. Candidates for the Exhibitions must be deserving persons in need of support at the University; to a Scholarship no one is eligible who has attained the age of nineteen years.

There are also two Bible Clerkships.

Bishop Fraser's Scholarship, founded under the bequest of Mrs. Fraser, in memory of her husband James Fraser, Bishop of Manchester 1870-1886, and formerly Fellow of the College, is of the value of £100 per annum. The object of it is to enable some member of the College to pursue some special branch of study for one year (which may be extended to two years) from the time he shall have taken the degree of B.A., or shall be qualified to take that degree. If no member of the College is qualified for the Scholarship, it may be thrown open to other members of the University.

VI. THE QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

FOUNDED in 1340, O. S., by Robert Eglesfield, Chaplain to Philippa, Queen of Edward III, from whom it is called the Queen's College.

Under the new statutes (1882) the College consists of a Provost, from fourteen to sixteen Fellows, about twenty-five Scholars (of whom four or five, called Eglesfield Scholars, are, if suitable candidates present themselves, to be natives of Cumberland or Westmorland), and two Bible-Clerks.

Five Scholarships were founded by Rev. Sir E. R. Jodrell, Bart., M.A., of the College.

The Hastings Exhibitions are open to candidates from the schools of Carlisle and St. Bees in Cumberland, Appleby, Heversham, and Kendal, in Westmorland, Bradford, Doncaster, Giggleswick, Halifax (Heath), Hull (Hymers), Leeds, Pocklington, Richmond, Ripon, Sedburgh, Wakefield, and York, in Yorkshire.

There are also Exhibitions in the gift of the College, (Fitzgerald) for natives of Middlesex, (Thanet) for boys from Appleby School, (Fox) for natives of Cumberland and Westmorland educated at St. Bees School, (Dixon) for natives of Whitehaven, (Wilson) for boys from Kirkby Lonsdale and Kendal schools, besides others of smaller value.

The Tylney Exhibitioner is nominated by the owner of Tylney Hall; the Thomas Exhibitions, for sons or orphans of clergy in the Diocese of Carlisle, and the Berry Exhibitions, for sons of clergy in the Diocese of Manchester, are in the gift of Trustees, of whom the Provost is one.

There is also an Exhibition founded (1895) under a bequest of Rev. John Wilson, B.D., formerly Fellow and Tutor, to be called the Holwell Exhibition, for the encouragement of the study of Theology among Students of the College in their fourth or fifth year.

VII. NEW COLLEGE.

THIS College was founded by William of Wykeham, Bishop of Winchester, and sometime Lord High Chancellor of England, under a Charter of Richard the Second, dated 30th June, 1379, and a Deed of Foundation dated 26th November, 1379, for a Warden, seventy Fellows and Scholars, ten Chaplains, three Clerks, and sixteen Choristers.

Under statutes made by the Oxford University Commissioners in 1881, and approved by the Queen in Council, May 3, 1882, the Fellowships hereafter are to be divided into three classes, viz. Professor Fellowships, Tutorial Fellowships, and Ordinary Fellowships.

The Professor Fellowships are to be five in number, and are to be annexed to the Savilian Professorships of Geometry and Astronomy; the Professorship of Logic; a Professorship of Ancient History; and a Professorship of Physics; and the holders of the last three Professorships are to be called Wykeham Professors.

The Tutorial Fellowships are to be so many, not exceeding ten, in number, as the Warden and Fellows may deem necessary.

The Ordinary Fellowships are to be not less than fourteen in number, nor more than will make up the whole number of Fellowships to thirty-six, including any Fellowship to which a Bursar may have been elected.

So soon as the revenues of the College will permit, two Ordinary Fellowships (called respectively Winchester and Open Fellowships) are to be filled up annually by competition. One of these is to be open to all persons who shall have been educated for at least two years in the School of Winchester College, or have been for at least twelve terms members of New College; the other is to be open to all persons who shall have passed all the examinations required by the University for the degree of B.A.

The Scholarships are to be divided into two classes, respectively called Winchester Scholarships and Open Scholarships.

The Winchester Scholarships are to be so many as will enable the Warden and Fellows to elect to six such Scholarships in each year from the boys receiving education in the School of Winchester College; no distinction being made between members of the foundation of Winchester College and boys not members thereof.

The Open Scholarships are to be so many as will enable the Warden and Fellows to elect to four Open Scholarships in each year.

No Candidate is eligible to an Open Scholarship whose age on the day of election shall exceed nineteen years.

The emoluments of a Scholarship, inclusive of rooms and all allowances, if any, are £80 a year.

Every Scholarship is tenable for two years from the day of election, but the tenure may be prolonged for a further period of two years, and, for special reasons, for one year more.

A fund is to be established for the purpose of maintaining Exhibitions to be held by Undergraduate members of the College.

The Choir is to consist of such a number of Chaplains, Lay-Clerks, and Choristers, as the Warden and Fellows shall from time to time determine. At present there are three Chaplains, ten Lay-Clerks (including supernumeraries) and eighteen Choristers.

VIII. LINCOLN COLLEGE.

FOUNDED by Richard Fleming, Bishop of Lincoln, in 1427, for a Rector and seven Fellows; and greatly augmented by Thomas Rotherham, Bishop of Lincoln, and afterwards Archbishop of York and Lord High Chancellor of England, who added five Fellowships, and gave a new body of statutes in 1479.

Scholarships were given by different Benefactors, the chief of whom were Nathaniel Lord Crewe, Bishop of Durham 1674–1722, Richard Hutchins, D.D., and John Radford, D.D., Rectors.

One Scholarship was founded in 1847 by Mrs. Tatham, widow of Edward Tatham, D.D., Rector; and in 1857 the Rev. Henry Usher Matthews, M.A., left by Will certain moneys for the foundation of an Open Scholarship, and also of an Exhibition from Shrewsbury School.

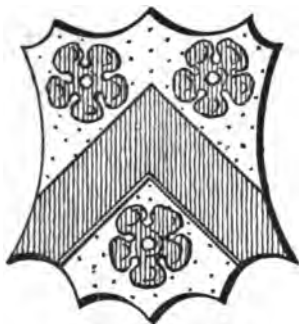

The existing statutes, enacted under the authority of a Parliamentary Commission in 1855, provide for a Rector, twelve Fellows, and fourteen Scholars, on the Foundation. Other Scholarships are added from time to time from the proceeds of two suspended Fellowships.

One Fellowship is appropriated to the Lincoln and Merton Professorship of Classical Archaeology and Art.

IX. ALL SOULS COLLEGE.

FOUNDED in 1437, by Henry Chichele, sometime Fellow of New College, and successively Bishop of St. David's and Archbishop of Canterbury, for a Warden, forty Fellows, two Chaplains, and Clerks.

The statutes which came into operation on May 3, 1882, make provision for the following Fellowships:—

X. ST. MARY MAGDALEN COLLEGE.

THIS College was founded by William Waynflete, successively Head Master of Winchester and Eton Colleges, Provost of Eton, and Bishop of Winchester, and sometime Lord High Chancellor of England, by instruments dated in the years 1457 and 1458. The College so founded superseded and absorbed the Hall of St. Mary Magdalen founded by Waynflete, on a different site, in the year 1448. By statutes delivered at a later time the Founder directed that his College should consist of a President, forty Fellows, thirty Scholars called Demies, four Chaplains, eight Clerks, and sixteen Choristers; and he provided also for the appointment and maintenance of Readers in Theology and Natural and Moral Philosophy, and of a Grammar Master and Usher. Exhibitions, tenable by Demies and other members of the College, have been added at different times by various benefactors.

Under the existing statutes (made in 1882 and since amended) the number of Fellowships within the College is to be not less than thirty nor greater than forty.

Of these Fellowships five are attached to the five Waynflete Professorships in the University, and one to the Professorship of Botany.

Other Fellowships, not exceeding twelve in number, may be held officially by persons holding the office of Dean of Divinity, Senior Dean of Arts, Bursar, or Tutor in the College. Of the remainder, which are tenable under certain conditions for seven years, two, as far as practicable, are to be filled up in every year; and the examination for them is to be held in subjects connected with the studies of the University, special reference being had in the examination for Fellowships as regards not less than one in six, to excellence in Theology, and as regards not less than one in six to excellence in Mathematics, Natural Science or Medicine.

In addition to Senior Demyships not exceeding eight in number, to be held by members of the University who have passed all the Examinations required for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, the number of Junior Demyships is fixed at thirty, and the value of each is not to exceed £80 a year.

In every year elections to one or more Demyships are to take place with special reference to proficiency in one or more of the following subjects: Mathematics, Natural Science, Modern History and Literature, or Modern Languages, if candidates sufficiently qualified in these subjects (who shall also satisfy the electors that they are otherwise fit to be members of the College) shall present themselves.

The annual sum of £500 is to be applied by the College to the granting of Exhibitions of such amount, and for such periods, and to such persons, being in need of support at the University and otherwise deserving, whether members of the College or not, as the President and Fellows, or electors appointed by them for that purpose, shall think fit.

There may now be as many as ten Clerks, and provision is made for an Organist as a member of the foundation; otherwise the constitution of the Choir remains unaltered.

XI. THE KING'S HALL AND COLLEGE OF BRASENOSE.

FOUNDED in 1509, by the joint benefaction of William Smith, Bishop of Lincoln, and Sir Richard Sutton, Knt., of Prestbury, in Cheshire. The College took the place of Brasenose Hall, the existence of which can be traced back to the thirteenth century. The foundation was for a Principal and twelve Fellows; eight Fellowships were afterwards added; and by an Ordinance of the Commissioners under the Act 17 and 18 Vict., cap. 81, all the Fellowships were thrown open. The statutes made by the University of Oxford Commissioners under the Universities Act of 1887 fixed the number of Fellowships at twelve, exclusive of Supernumerary Fellows and of the Fellowship held ex officio by the Camden Professor of Ancient History.

Scholarships and Exhibitions were added at different times by various benefactors; the chief of whom are, John Claymond, D.D., President of Corpus Christi College; John, Lord Mordaunt; Alexander Nowell, Dean of St. Paul's; Samuel Radcliffe, D.D., and Thomas Yate, D.D., successively Principals of the College; William Grimboldson, M.D.; and Sarah, Duchess Dowager of Somerset, who founded eighteen Scholarships for persons educated at the Schools of Manchester, Marlborough, and Hereford, and also four Scholarships restricted to the first of the above-named Schools. At present the revenues derived from the Somerset trust estate are not sufficient to supply the full number of twenty-two Scholarships. In failure of candidates properly qualified from the Schools, these Scholarships are now opened to general competition.

At least £900 a year is charged on the corporate revenues of the College for the endowment of Open Scholarships of the annual value of £80.

William Hulme, Esq., of Kearsley, in the county of Lancaster, founded in 1691 four Exhibitions, now increased to twenty or more under a scheme framed by the Charity Commissioners and approved by the Queen in Council, August 26, 1881. Under this scheme, as subsequently amended, twelve are called junior Scholarships, and are awarded after a competitive examination. Their annual value is £80, and they are open to candidates of not more than twenty years of age. Eight are called senior Scholarships, and are awarded, in ordinary cases after competitive examination, to members of the College who have resided for not less than six nor more than thirteen terms. Their annual value is £130, and they are tenable for four years. Any surplus which may remain not thus applied is to be used for creating Exhibitions for candidates of not more than twenty years of age, of such value, not exceeding £60 a year, as may from time to time be determined by the Principal and Fellows, the conditions of tenure being the same as those for the junior Scholarships.

In 1842, three Exhibitions, to be called the Colquitt Clerical Exhibitions, were founded by the three Misses Colquitt, of Green Bank, in the county of Lancaster. These Exhibitions, which are of the value of £40 per annum, are intended to assist in the education for the Ministry in the Church of England, according to its articles and liturgy, of the sons of indigent or deceased clergymen, or of such laymen as cannot, unaided, support the expenses of a College education. They are open to persons who at the time of election are not yet members of the University, and to members of the College who at the same time have not exceeded two years from matriculation. They are not tenable after four years from matriculation.

In 1875, an open classical Scholarship, of the value of £100 per annum, was founded by Mrs. Jane Robinson in memory of her brother the Rev. John Watson, M.A., sometime fellow of the College.

All the Scholarships (excepting those on the Hulme foundation) are restricted to candidates who at the date of election are under nineteen years of age, and (excepting the senior Hulme Scholarships) are tenable in the first instance for two years and renewable for a like period. Their tenure may be extended under special circumstances to a fifth year.

XII. CORPUS CHRISTI COLLEGE.

THIS College was founded in the year 1516, by Richard Fox, Bishop of Winchester and Lord Privy Seal, for a President, three Professors (whose lectures were to be open to the University at large), twenty Fellows, twenty Scholars, two Chaplains, two Clerks, and two Choristers. The Clerks and Choristers were subsequently designated Exhibitioners.

When the provisions of the statutes made by the University of Oxford Commissioners in 1881 have been fully carried out, it will consist of a President, five Professorial Fellows, five or six Official Fellows, three Extraordinary Fellows, fourteen Ordinary Fellows, and thirty-six Scholars. The Professorial Fellowships will be annexed respectively to the chairs of Latin, Jurisprudence, Moral Philosophy, Comparative Philology, and the Romance Languages.

The College at present consists of a President, fourteen Fellows, two of whom are Professorial Fellows, and twenty-six Scholars.

The Scholarships are of the annual value of £80, and are tenable, under certain conditions, for four or, in exceptional cases, five years from matriculation.

Exhibitions are usually awarded at the same time as the Classical Scholarships.

XIII. CHRIST CHURCH.

THIS Society, founded originally by Cardinal Wolsey, Cardinal of St. Cecilia and Archbishop of York, on the site of the Priory of St. Frideswide, was to have consisted of a Dean, one hundred Canons, six Public Professors, thirteen Chaplains, a Teacher of Music, twelve Clerks, and sixteen Choristers.

This imperfect foundation continued only from 1526 to 1529, when, before its completion, the Cardinal having fallen into disgrace, King Henry VIII. suspended the foundation, which he re-established in 1532, under the name of Henry the Eighth's College, for a Dean and twelve Canons. This was again suppressed in 1545; and in the year following the episcopal see was removed from Osney to this College, and the Church of St. Frideswide was constituted a Cathedral, by the name of the Cathedral Church of Christ in Oxford, for the maintenance of a Dean, eight Canons, eight Chaplains, a Schoolmaster, an Organist, eight Clerks, and eight Choristers; together with one hundred Students; to which number one more was added in 1664, in consequence of a benefaction from William Thurstone, Esq. The number of Canons has since been reduced to six.

The House is now governed by statutes made by the University of Oxford Commissioners, which became law in 1882.

Under these statutes, there is a body of Students (equivalent to Fellows) who are divided into two classes, Official and Non-Official.

There is also a body of Scholars. Of these, three are elected each year from Westminster School, and hold their places, in the first instance, for two years; but at the end of this period their tenure may be extended for three years more if the Governing Body shall have declared itself satisfied with their industry and good conduct.

There are also six Open Scholarships offered for competition every year, one at least for proficiency in Mathematics, one at least for proficiency in Natural Science, and one at least for proficiency in Modern History. These Scholars hold their places for two years; but at the end of this period their tenure may be extended for a second term of two years if the Governing Body shall have declared itself satisfied with their industry and good conduct; and again for a further term of one year, under similar conditions and for special reasons.

All these Scholarships are of the annual value of £80, inclusive of all allowances.

Two Dixon Scholarships have been founded by Mrs. Dixon, widow of Colonel Dixon. They are tenable for two years by members of the House, who at the time of their appointment have passed all the examinations required for the degree of B.A. They are tenable with any other Scholarship or Exhibition within the House.

In addition to these Scholarships the Governing Body may, if they think fit, award to any selected candidate for the Indian Civil Service a Scholarship tenable during residence with emoluments not exceeding £50 a year: such Scholarships are never to exceed six at any one time.

There are open College Exhibitions of £45 a year, together with tuition and dinner free, tenable in the first instance for two years, at the end of which time they may be extended by the Governing Body in the same way and under the same conditions as the Open Scholarships; and also Exhibitions of less amount. Candidates before being allowed to compete for these must satisfy the Dean that without such assistance they cannot maintain themselves at College. There is no other limitation.

Three Fell Exhibitions of £40 a year, tenable for three years during continuous residence, and one Boulter Exhibition of £40, tenable for one year during continuous residence, are filled up by competition among Commoners of the House who have resided not less than three terms.

Three Exhibitions of £50 a year, tenable for three years, are offered for competition annually at Westminster School.

The Slade Exhibition (the interest on Miss Slade's gift of £1000 Consols), tenable for one year, is awarded annually after an examination, and is open to undergraduates of any standing.

The Dukes Prize, founded by the Rev. E. R. Dukes, formerly Student, is awarded after an examination in French, and is open to all undergraduates.

There are two Holford Exhibitions of £60 a year, tenable for five years: they are offered for competition among persons educated at Charterhouse School for at least two years last preceding the date of election, or last preceding the date of their matriculation. No one is eligible who is of more than four terms' standing.

XIV. TRINITY COLLEGE.

THIS College occupies the site and buildings of the ancient hall of the Benedictine Abbey of Durham, founded about 1286 by Priors Hugh de Darlington and Richard de Houton, and endowed in 1381 by Bishop Thomas Hatfield, under the nominal patronage of Richard II. It was dedicated to the Holy Trinity, Our Lady, and St. Cuthbert, and commonly called Durham College. At the Reformation its endowments were merged in those of the Dean and Chapter of Durham, and it came to an end in 1542, the site afterwards lapsing to the Crown.

In 1554-5 Sir Thomas Pope, Knt., of Tittenhanger, Hertfordshire, sometime Treasurer of the Court of Augmentations, a native of Oxfordshire, having purchased the site, founded the College of the Holy and Undivided Trinity for a President, twelve Fellows, and twelve Scholars; a thirteenth Scholar was added in 1590 by the Founder's widow and her kinsman, Richard Blount of London. Under the new statutes of 1882 there may be twelve Fellowships and sixteen Scholarships, all of which are entirely open.

The President and Fellows award Exhibitions from a fund consisting chiefly of the special endowment left by Francis Combe in 1641, with the pension left by the Rev. Thomas Unton in 1693, and other small benefactions. A Scholarship was founded in 1867 by Alborough Henniker, Esq., of Calcote, Somerset; and Scholars in Natural Science are supported by the endowment bequeathed in 1873 by Thomas Millard, Esq., for the advancement of Mathematical and General Science in the College.

An Exhibition, founded in 1720 by Frederick Tylney, Esq., is at present in the gift of the owner of Tylney Hall; and two Wyllie Exhibitions, tenable at this College only, are awarded by Cheltenham College.

The College presents to eight advowsons and a lectureship.

They are open, with certain limitations and under certain conditions in respect of literary proficiency, first, to the kindred of the Founder; secondly, to natives of Staffordshire; and in case of a Founder's kin or Staffordshire candidate not satisfying the conditions, then to any other person whatsoever.

Under the Will of the Rev. John Thomas Casberd, D.C.L., Prebendary of Llandaff, four Scholarships were founded, each of the value of £80 per annum. Candidates to be Undergraduates not on any foundation, of at least one year's standing in the College.

XVI. JESUS COLLEGE.

FOUNDED by Queen Elizabeth, in 1571, on the petition of Hugh Price, LL.D., Treasurer of St. David's, who left lands for the maintenance of a Principal, eight Fellows, and eight Scholars: it was increased by different Benefactors, so that the Society consisted of a Principal, nineteen Fellows, and eighteen Scholars.

The College now consists of a Principal and not fewer than eight nor more than fourteen Fellows.

In the elections to Non-official Fellowships, unless one-half of the whole number of Fellows would have been eligible under the terms of the following restrictions, no person is eligible unless he be a native of Wales or Monmouthshire, or has been a Welsh Scholar of Jesus College, or, having been at the time of his matriculation eligible to a Welsh Scholarship, has been for the eight terms preceding his Degree of Bachelor of Arts a member of the College.

There are twenty-four Foundation Scholarships, of which twelve are open without restriction as to place of birth. There are besides four Meyricke Scholarships (of which two are restricted to Graduate Members of the University of Wales or of St. David's College, Lampeter), and about sixteen Meyricke Exhibitions; also several Scholarships and Exhibitions on King Charles the First's Foundation.

The King Charles the First's Scholarship and Exhibitions are restricted to Candidates born in Jersey or Guernsey or one of the islands adjacent to them, or educated for two out of the three years last preceding the election either at Victoria College, Jersey, or Elizabeth College, Guernsey.

The other Scholarships and the Meyricke Scholarships and Exhibitions are restricted to candidates who are either (1) natives of Wales or Monmouthshire; or (2) sons of parents who have been resident in Wales or Monmouthshire for a period of not less than seven years immediately preceding the day of election ; or (3) have a knowledge of and are able to speak the Welsh language ; or (4) have been educated for the three years last preceding the election (or last preceding their matriculation if already members of the University) at a school or schools in Wales or Monmouthshire ; if any such person be found of sufficient merit, and fit to be a Scholar or Exhibitioner of the College in the judgment of the electors. There is also an Exhibition founded by subscription in memory of Mr. Assheton Smith, limited to natives of Carnarvonshire ; and another founded by Mr. Thomas Phillips, for a pupil from Llandovery School.

The Foundation Scholarships are open only to candidates under nineteen years of age. There is no restriction as to age for candidates for the other Scholarships or for Exhibitions.

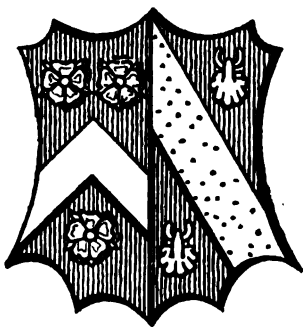

Exhibitions of variable amount and tenure, for the assistance of such members of the College receiving instruction under the direction of the College as the Principal and Fellows may deem to be in need of assistance at the University, are under no farther restrictions.

The value of a Scholarship is £80 a year and of an Exhibition £50.

XVII. WADHAM COLLEGE.

FOUNDED by Nicholas Wadham, of Merifield in the county of Somerset, Esquire, and Dorothy his wife, daughter of Sir William Petre, to be a College of students "ad laudem gloriam et honorem Omnipotentis Dei, bonarum literarum incrementum, ac communem hujus regni utilitatem."

The Society was founded in 1612, under Letters Patent granted by King James I, and consisted originally of a Warden, fifteen Fellows, fifteen Scholars, two Chaplains, and two Clerks. Under the present statutes, which were approved by the Queen in Council on May 3, 1862, there are to be not less than eight nor more than ten Fellowships, inclusive of one held by the Professor of Experimental Philosophy, and of one for the encouragement of the study of Medicine, on the foundation of John Wills, D.D., Warden 1783-1806.

There are eighteen Scholarships, including five on the foundation of Humphrey Hody, D.D., Regius Professor of Greek 1698-1707, and a sometime Fellow.

The election to two of Dr. Hody's Scholarships is made after an examination in the Hebrew language and literature, and in the election to the other three special regard is to be had to knowledge of Greek.

The Scholarships are of the value of £80 a year. They are tenable in the first instance for two years, but in the case of all Scholars whose conduct and industry are satisfactory this term is prolonged to four years, to which for special reasons a fifth may be added. Candidates for Scholarships must be under nineteen years of age on the day of election, except in the case of Dr. Hody's Scholarships for Hebrew, for which the limit of age is twenty.

In 1899 a Scholarship, to be called the Woodward of Dean Forest Scholarship, was founded in accordance with the will of the late

Miss Mary Woodward, in memory of her brother Mr. Richard Woodward. Candidates must be natives of the county of Gloucester, or have been educated for two years in a school in that county. They must also be communicant members of the Church of England.

The election of Fellows takes place on the Wednesday after the Encenia; the election of Scholars on the sixth of December.

From the income of Dr. Hody's fund prizes are to be given within the College on such conditions as the Warden and Fellows may determine, for proficiency in the Greek language and literature, or in Greek Archæology.

There is a general Exhibition fund, formed from the funds given for Exhibitions by Mr. Goodridge, Mr. Pigot, Sir Benjamin Maddox, Bishop Lisle as executor to Mr. Somerscales, Mr. Warner, and Dr. Gerard, with the residue of the income of Dr. Hody's benefaction.

There are also two Exhibitions for Scholars of the Manchester Grammar School, founded in 1874 by the executors of Mr. Philip Wright of Manchester; and one for a Commoner of the College, founded in 1877 by the will of Benjamin Parsons Symons, D.D., Warden 1831-71.

XVIII. PEMBROKE COLLEGE.

THIS Foundation, originally Broadgates Hall, was constituted a College by King James I, whose letters patent, dated June 29, 1624, ordain that it shall consist of a Master, ten Fellows, and ten Scholars, and that it shall be a body politic known by the name of the Master, Fellows, and Scholars of the foundation of King James at the cost and charges of Thomas Tesdale and Richard Wightwicke. The last Principal of Broadgates Hall, Thomas Clayton, M.D., was appointed the first Master of the College, which was named after William Herbert, Earl of Pembroke and Chancellor of the University at the time of its incorporation.

Among subsequent benefactors were King Charles I, Dame Juliana Stafford, Francis Rous, Esq., sometime Provost of Eton College, Sir John Bennet, afterwards Lord Ossulston, the Right Reverend George Morley, sometime Bishop of Winchester, George Townsend, Esq., Dame Elizabeth Holford, the Reverend William Oades, Edmund Boulter, Esq., Sir John Phillips, Bart., the Reverend James Phipps, M.A., sometime Scholar, Dr. John Ratcliffe, sometime Master of the College, Francis Wightwick, Esq., Dr. John Smyth, sometime Master of the College, Mrs. Sophia Sheppard, the friends of the Reverend Thomas Frederick Henney, M.A., sometime Vicegerent and Tutor, the Reverend Christopher Cleoburey, M.A., sometime Fellow, and Mrs. Dorothea Wightwick.

A Canonry in the Cathedral Church of Gloucester was annexed to the Mastership for ever by letters patent of Queen Anne, bearing date November 11, 1713.

The constitution of the College is now determined by statutes made by the University Commissioners of 1877, and approved by the Queen in Council on May 3, 1882.

Under these statutes the College consists of a Master, ten Fellows, and twelve Scholars. Two of the Fellows are styled Sheppard

Fellows; and of these, one is to be called to the Bar, the other is to proceed to the degree of Doctor of Medicine. The remaining Fellows are divided into two classes, one being called Ordinary, the other Tutorial. Of the twelve Scholars whose maintenance is charged upon the corporate revenues, four are called "Abingdon Scholars," two "Boulter and Radcliffe Scholars," two "Oades and Stafford Scholars," and four "Foundation Scholars."

Besides the twelve Scholarships maintained out of corporate revenues, there are the following Scholarships maintained out of separate endowments; one or more on the foundation of King Charles I; one on the foundation of Bishop Morley; one on the foundation of Francis Rous, Esq.; one on the foundation of Dame Elizabeth Holford; and one or more on the foundation of George Townsend, Esq.

There are also to be at least two Exhibitions on the foundation of King Charles I.

The Henney Scholarship is unaffected by the statutes made by the Commissioners.

Since the passing of the existing statutes, three Scholarships have been founded in the College, of which one owes its origin to a bequest of the Reverend Christopher Cleobury; the other two are due to the munificence of Mrs. Dorothea Wightwick.

XIX. WORCESTER COLLEGE.

THIS College, established in 1283 as a School for Benedictine Monks under the name of Gloucester Hall<sup>1</sup> or College, received its charter of incorporation in 1714 as a foundation for a Provost, six Fellows, and six Scholars, under the Will of Sir Thomas Cookes, Bart. It has been further endowed by subsequent Benefactors, Mrs. Sarah Eaton, Dr. Clarke, Dr. Finney, Lady Holford, Mr. Kay, and Mr. Barnes.

Under the statutes of 1882 the College consists of a Provost, nine (or ten) Fellows, and nineteen Scholars: of the Scholarships five are on the foundation of Sir Thomas Cookes, for persons educated at Bromsgrove School; four on that of Mrs. Eaton, for sons of Clergymen of the Church of England, or of some Church in communion therewith, needing assistance at the University; the remainder are open; namely, one on the foundation of Dr. Finney; five on that of Dr. Clarke; one on that of Mr. Barnes, for the encouragement of Biblical studies; and three others. Some of these are at present suspended.

There are also several Exhibitions, of which two are connected with the Charterhouse School, three with Bromsgrove School, and one with Wolverhampton Grammar School.

A Studentship in Egyptology, of the value of £150 per annum, was endowed by the late Mrs. Laycock.

<sup>1</sup> Gloucester Hall was founded in the year 1283, for the use of the Benedictine Monks of the Monastery of St. Peter in Gloucester. Several additional buildings were afterwards added by the Monks of that order, in different parts of England, for the edification of those of their own societies. After the dissolution of Monasteries, in the time of Henry VIII, on making Oxford a See, it was converted into the Episcopal Palace; but in the year 1559, it was purchased by Sir Thomas White, the Founder of St. John's College, who gave it the name of "St. John Baptist Hall," though it was more generally called "Gloucester Hall."

XX. HERTFORD COLLEGE.

ABOUT the year 1282 Elias de Hertford converted into a Hall for students certain premises in Oxford, which were thereafter known by the name of Hertford, Hert, or Hart Hall.

In 1740, Dr. Richard Newton, then Principal of Hart Hall, obtained a charter of incorporation for the Society, under the title of "The Principal and Fellows of Hertford College, in the University of Oxford;" but, the endowments proving insufficient, and no successor to Dr. Hodgson, the last Principal, having been appointed within the statutable time after his death in 1805, the College was, after some years, declared to have been ipso facto dissolved. A part of the property of the dissolved College was transferred to the University, and the Hertford Scholarship was endowed therefrom. The remainder was transferred to Magdalen Hall under the following circumstances.

Magdalen Hall, for a long time a dependency of Magdalen College, and governed by one of the Fellows of that Society, became, in 1602, an independent Hall. In 1816, the President and Fellows of Magdalen College, being desirous of recovering the site of the Hall, obtained an Act of Parliament (56 Geo. III, c. 136), enabling them to acquire for Magdalen Hall the site and buildings previously occupied by Hertford College. The Principal and other Members of the Hall were accordingly removed to these premises in 1822, and received, as stated above, the residue of the property formerly held by Hertford College.

In 1874, an Act was passed (37 & 38 Vict. c. 55), by which Magdalen Hall was dissolved, and the Principal and Scholars thereof were, together with certain Fellows mentioned in the Act, incorporated as a College of the University of Oxford under the name of "The Principal, Fellows, and Scholars of Hertford College, in the University of Oxford," and invested with "all such rights and privileges as are possessed or enjoyed or can be exercised by other Colleges in the University of Oxford."

This Society consists at present of a Principal appointed by the Chancellor of the University, nineteen Fellows, and forty Scholars.

The new Foundation consists of an endowment for fifteen Fellowships, thirty Scholarships, and sundry Lectureships. There are also (besides an unendowed Fellowship) two Fellowships tenable only by married men for a limited number of years. The thirty Scholarships are of the annual value of £100, and tenable for five years. Most of them are open.

Of the ten Scholarships formerly belonging to the dissolved Magdalen Hall, and tenable for at least three years, four founded by the Rev. John Meeke and two by the Rev. William Lucy are now of the annual value of £40, and are limited in the first instance to persons educated at the Free Grammar School of Worcester and Hampton Lucy School respectively, but in the absence of qualified candidates from these Schools are thrown open to general competition. The other four, three founded by Mr. Henry Lusby and one as a memorial of Dr. Macbride, late Principal of Magdalen Hall, are open, and worth at least £50 a year.

There are also two Exhibitions, founded respectively by Dr. Thomas White and Dr. Henry Brunzell, in the gift of the Principal.

ST. MARY HALL.

THIS Hall was originally the Parsonage-house of the Rectors of St. Mary's Church, till Edward II, in 1325, gave the Church with all its appurtenances to Oriel College. It was converted by that Society into a separate place of education, and subsequently became an independent Academical Hall.

The Nowell Exhibition is tenable for four years from matriculation: preference being given first to kin of the Founder or of his Wife, then to the lawful descendants of the Rev. John Rawbone (sometime Vice-Principal of St. Mary Hall) by Jane Mary his wife.

ST. EDMUND HALL.

ST. EDMUND HALL is said to derive its name from St. Edmund, Archbishop of Canterbury in the reign of Henry III.

It appears to have been purchased in the year 1269 by the Canons of Osney, and soon afterwards devoted by them to the purposes of Academical instruction. The earliest Principals on record are William Boys and John de Cornubia, the latter of whom was Principal in the year 1317. After the dissolution of religious houses, it was granted by Henry VIII to two citizens of Oxford, through whom it came, by purchase, into the possession of William Denyse (sometimes written Devenysh, or Dennyson), Provost of Queen's College. It was by him devised, in 1557, to Queen's College, which Society procured, A.D. 1559, an Act of Congregation, confirmed by the Chancellor, which vested in them the perpetual right of nominating the Principal.

In 1763, George Holme, D.D., sometime Fellow of Queen's College, and Rector of Hedleigh, Hants, bequeathed the sum of £1000 to the University, in trust to apply it, with accumulated interest, to the purchase of the Advowson of a Living, to which the Principal of St. Edmund Hall should be presented. In 1821 the Advowson of Gatcombe was purchased, to which the University first presented in 1844.

Members of this Hall are admitted to the Lectures given in Queen's College.

KEBLE COLLEGE.

THE College was built by subscription as a memorial to the late Rev. John Keble, Vicar of Hursley, near Winchester, sometime Fellow and Tutor of Oriel College, and Professor of Poetry in the University of Oxford. The College was incorporated by Royal Charter bearing date June 6, 1870, and by this Charter it is declared to be "founded and constituted with the especial object and intent of providing persons desirous of academical education, and willing to live economically, with a College wherein sober living and high culture of the mind may be combined with Christian training based upon the principles of the Church of England."

The College is governed by a Warden and a Council of not less than nine, nor more than twelve, members. The whole charge and superintendence of the discipline and internal administration is lodged by the Charter in the hands of the Warden.

By a decree of Convocation, passed April 18, 1871, this College was admitted to the privileges mentioned in Statt. Tit. II. Sect. v, On New Foundations for Academical Study and Education.

HALLS.

THE Academical Halls were mansions for the reception of students, who lived in them under discipline and instruction, and passed through the course of study to their several degrees, precisely in the same way as other students residing in Colleges. But the term Hall implied also the society of students belonging to each; and in this sense there was a very important difference between Halls and Colleges, inasmuch as Halls were not corporate bodies, and had no endowments for Fellows, and all the property which they owned was held in trust for them by the University. In each of the Halls now remaining some provision for the Principals has been made by benefactors; and in one a few exhibitions or scholarships have been founded.

In early times students resorting to Oxford took up their abode in lodging-houses, generally called Halls, under the charge of a Master or Principal chosen by themselves; and they removed from one Hall to another at their pleasure. The number of such Halls on record is so great that we must suppose that very many of them were very small. Brian Twyne, at the end of his Apologia, has given the names of more than 180; and Sir John Peshall, from Wood's MSS., enumerates as many as 200. But Colleges gradually took the place of all the smallest, partly by the actual occupation of their sites, principally by offering better instruction and other advantages to students; so that when the Earl of Leicester was Chancellor, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, there were but eight remaining open; and three of these were subsequently converted into Colleges.

Among the many steps taken by Lord Leicester for the restoration of good order and discipline in the University there are two which tended to assimilate Halls to Colleges in most things concerning the residence of students within them. He secured for himself and his successors the right of appointing Principals to all Halls, except one in the gift of Queen's College; and he caused an ancient Statute to be put in force, which required that every student should belong to, and should reside within the walls of, some College or Hall. The modification of that Statute in 1855 by the institution of Private Halls, and the removal of its restrictions in 1868, have been already mentioned at page 524, and will be further spoken of at page 574.

The only Academical Halls now remaining are St. Mary Hall and St. Edmund Hall<sup>1</sup>.

Under statutes made by the University Commissioners of 1877 St. Mary Hall will, on the next vacancy in the office of Principal.

become and be completely united to Oriel College, in which the site and buildings, and all property belonging to or held in trust for the Hall will become vested.

St. Edmund Hall, on the next vacancy in the office of Principal, will be as to its property, site, and buildings, vested in Queen's College, but will be maintained in several respects as an establishment separate from the College, which will continue to appoint a Principal.

The Heads of Halls were styled "Principals." In St. Edmund Hall, the appointment of the Principal was made by the Provost and Fellows of Queen's College; the Principals of the others were appointed by the Chancellor of the University, who was the Visitor of all the Halls. Halls were governed by the Statuta Aularia, a code of regulations printed in the Statute Book, which were made originally by the University, and were amended from time to time by Convocation. The Principal of each Hall was assisted in the exercise of discipline and in his other duties by a Vice-Principal and other officers (when necessary) appointed by himself.

NEW INN HALL.

THIS Hall, situate on the west side of the North Bailey, was formerly known by the name of Trilleck's Inn, from the circumstance of its belonging to John Trilleck, Bishop of Hereford. Trilleck dying intestate in 1360, it became, together with two other tenements adjoining, the property of his brother Thomas, who six years after (being then Bishop of Rochester) conveyed them to Mr. Hugh Penbridge, Mr. Roger Otterey, and Walter Brown, Rector of the Church of St. Magnus, in London; and they to William of Wykeham, Bishop of Winchester. William of Wykeham gave them, with three gardens adjoining on the west side, also a messuage called Rose Hall, and a garden adjoining, to the Warden and Fellows of New College, in 1392. The first Principal on record occurs in 1438.

In the time of the civil war, from 1642 to 1646, this Hall was used as a mint for Charles I, to which the different Colleges and Halls sent their plate to be melted down for His Majesty's use.

It was restored to the purposes of academical instruction by Dr. Cramer, Principal, afterwards Dean of Carlisle, who erected, at his own expense, a handsome building, with suitable offices, for the reception of students. A Chapel was added in 1868 by Dr. Cornish, Principal from 1866 to 1887.

ST. ALBAN HALL.

THIS Hall took its name from Robert de St. Alban, a citizen of Oxford, who conveyed the tenement to the nuns at Littlemore, near Oxford, in 1230. On the dissolution of Littlemore nunnery, it was given by Henry VIII to George Owen, D.M., Physician to the King, and Fellow of Merton College, who conveyed it to Sir John Williams (afterwards Lord Williams of Thame) and Sir John Gresham. By permission of Edward VI they assigned it over to John Pollard and Robert Perrot, Esqrs., in 1547, by whom it was finally transferred to the Warden and Fellows of Merton College, and was some time after established as an Academical Hall.

STUDENTS WHO DO NOT BELONG TO ANY COLLEGE OR HALL<sup>1</sup>.

IN the year 1868 the restrictions of an ancient statute, which has been already mentioned, were removed ; and persons are now permitted, under certain conditions prescribed in Statt. Tit. III. Sect. i. and iv., to become students and members of the University without being members of any College or Hall. Such persons keep their statutable residence in houses or licensed lodgings within the limit of a circle the centre of which is Carfax, and the radius a line one mile and a half in length ; they enjoy the same rights of profiting by Professors' lectures, of competing for University prizes, of attaining distinction in the public examinations, and of being admitted to degrees and to all the consequent privileges, as are enjoyed by other students.

The reception of students into the University under the prescribed conditions, and the exercise of discipline over them during their residence in Oxford, are committed to a Delegacy consisting of the Vice-Chancellor, the Proctors, the Controller of Lodging Houses, a Censor, and six Members of Convocation holding office for six years, of whom two are elected by Congregation, two by the Hebdomadal Council, and two are nominated by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors subject to the approval of Convocation. The Censor, who is nominated by the Vice-Chancellor and Proctors subject to the approval of Convocation, holds office for five years.

The Students are under the supervision of the Censor, who is charged with the care of their conduct and studies.

There are also tutors appointed by the Delegates to give instruction to the Students.

CENSORS OF NON-COLLEGIATE STUDENTS.

1870 { George William Kitchin, Ch. Ch.
George Sturton Ward, Magdalen Hall (Hertford)
1868 William Walrond Jackson, Exeter

AFFILIATED COLLEGES.

By a statute of the University passed in 1880 and since revised, any College or Institution within the United Kingdom or in any part of the British Dominions, being a place of education in which the majority of the students are of the age of 17 at least, may on certain conditions be admitted to the privileges of an Affiliated College. The conditions are in effect as follows :—

The College or Institution must be incorporated by Royal Charter or otherwise established on a permanent and efficient footing ; it must allow the University to be represented on its Governing Body ; it must have been admitted to the privileges of an Affiliated College by a vote of Convocation ; and the connexion between it and the University must be terminable at the will of either body.

The effect of the statute is to reduce the period of necessary academical residence for a person coming from an Affiliated College from three to two years.

For further particulars reference should be made to the University statutes.

The institutions at present admitted to these privileges are—

- 1880 June 1. St. David's College, Lampeter.
- 1882 June 15. University College, Nottingham.
- 1886 June 29. Firth College, Sheffield.
- 1899 Feb. 21. Reading College, Reading.

OF COLONIAL AND INDIAN UNIVERSITIES.

By a statute of the University dating from 1887 any University situated in any part of the British Dominions other than the United Kingdom may apply to be admitted to the privileges thereby conferred.

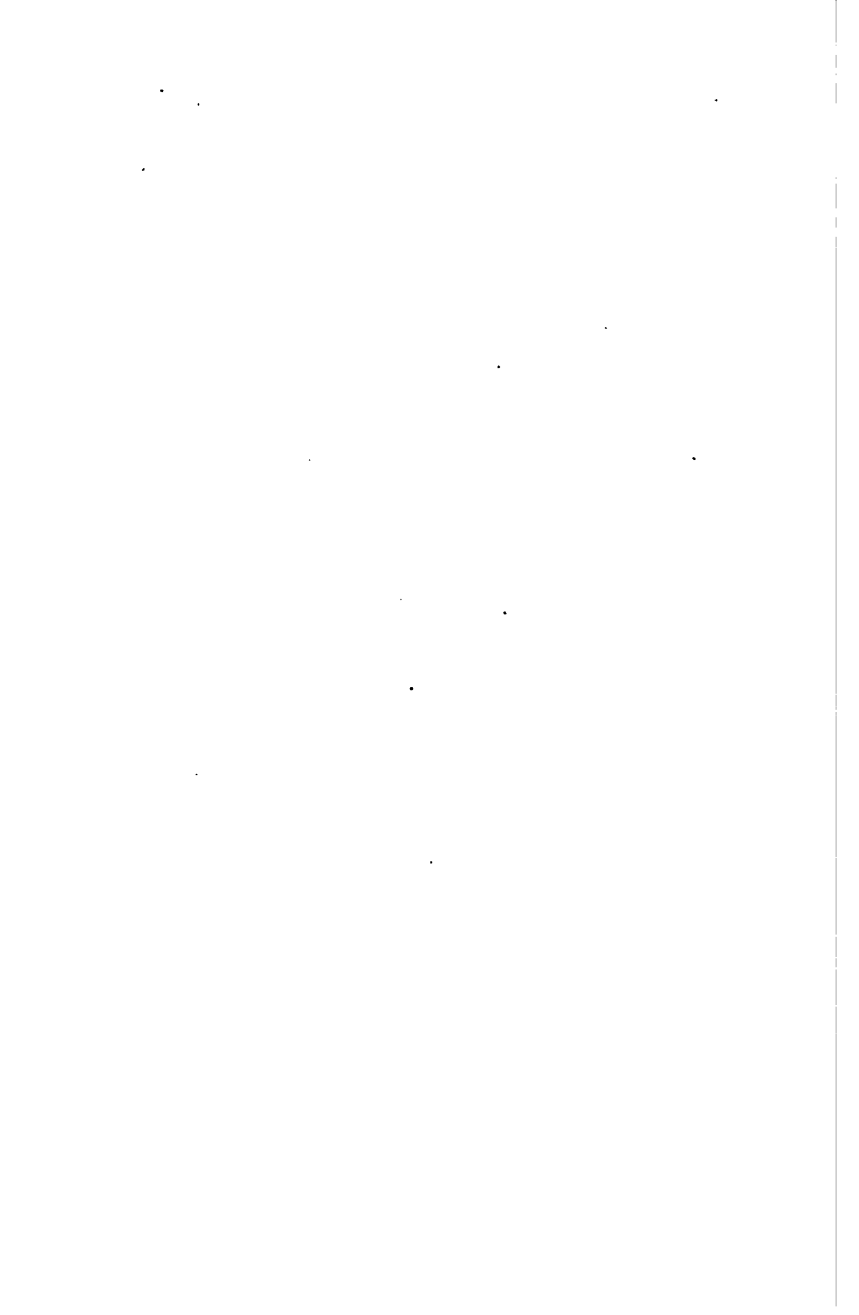

The application is to be addressed to the Vice-Chancellor, by whom it is reported to the Hebdomadal Council. The Council may, after consideration and due inquiry, propose to Convocation that the University so applying be admitted to the privileges above referred to.

When a University has been thus admitted, any person who has pursued during two full years the course of study prescribed by such University, and has passed all the examinations connected therewith, may, subject to his passing certain examinations in this University, be matriculated here, and may reckon the term in which he matriculates as the fifth term from his matriculation, thus shortening the period of necessary academical residence by one year.

For further particulars reference should be made to the University statutes.

The Universities at present admitted to these privileges are—

1888	Nov. 27.	The University of the Cape of Good Hope.
		The University of Sydney.
1889	Oct. 29.	The University of the Punjab.
1890	Nov. 4.	The University of Bombay.
